RUSSIA ASKS BRITAIN TO PUSH LAOS MISSION

GENEVA (CP)—Russia today called on Britain to urge the government of Laos to accept the revival of the three-nation armistice supervisory commission.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko made the proposal in a 35-minute talk with British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd.

Communist sources said Russia wants Britain to agree to a joint message urging the revival of the commission, which has not held a working session since last July. The commission is made up of representatives of Canada, Poland and India.

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif.—The Discoverer III satellite vehicle, fired aloft with four "space mice" aboard Thursday, re-entered the earth's atmosphere and burned up, it was announced today.

Roy W. Johnson, director of the advanced research projects, said that "all available data" indicated the mouse-carrying rocket plunged its tiny passengers to a fiery death several thousand miles south of here within minutes after launching.

But Air Force authorities indicated that valuable information was received on the mice during the period of rocket lift-off, the period of "weightlessness" in space and the period when the satellite stage fired to inject itself into orbit.

"One of the possibilities under investigation," Johnson's statement said, "was that the injection (into orbit) angle of the vehicle was improper, causing it to re-enter the atmosphere."

The Air Force wanted the mice then to orbit the earth for 26 hours, then parachute in their air-conditioned capsule.

The two-stage Thor missile roared into space as scheduled Wednesday and sent back radio signals for 13 minutes. Then the signals stopped.

Planes had been poised to try a difficult aerial catch over the Pacific, but officials had given them only one chance in 700 of succeeding.

The mice would have been the first creatures retrieved alive from orbit. Two monkeys were fired into space from Cape Canaveral by the army May 28 but their trip covered only 1,500 miles.

Strapped on the backs of the mice were tiny radios. These were intended to relay their heartbeat, breathing, temperature and muscular activity back to earth.

'Anti-Labor Trend Growing in Canada'

TORONTO (CP)—Leaders of the nation's biggest single union today sounded separate warnings of a "growing" anti-labor, anti-union trend in Canada.

The speakers—top directors of the 83,000-member United Steelworkers of America (USWA)—expressed alarm in opening reports to the union's national policy conference here.

"We are meeting this year in an atmosphere influenced by a constant barrage of anti-labor propaganda," William Mahoney, U.S.W.A. national director, told some 300 local union leaders at the conference.

The line of attack stretches from the fog-bound domain of Joey Smallwood to the balmey shores of Bennett's British Columbia," added Larry Sefton, USWA chief of 317 local unions from Ontario to the west coast.

BANK INTEREST RATE HITS RECORD 5.33

OTTAWA (CP)—The Bank of Canada interest rate shot up this week to an all-time high of 5.33 per cent, the central bank reported today.

The rise followed last week's decline to 5.15 per cent. Previous to that the bank rate had climbed steadily for nine consecutive weeks. The previous high was 5.30 per cent two weeks ago. The peak compares with the all-time low of 1.12 per cent set last Aug. 2.

Living Costs Take Jump; Taxes Hurt

OTTAWA (CP)—Living costs rose during April following a five-month decline, pushing the consumer price index up by one-fifth of a point to 125.6 on May 1 from 125.4 April 1, the bureau of statistics reported today.

Some of the price boost reflected tax increases announced in Finance Minister Fleming's April 9 budget, the bureau said.

While some food prices dipped, prices rose for cigarettes, cigar tobacco, liquor, automobile tires, theatre admissions, men's haircuts, women's hairdressing, along with men's and women's footwear, fresh fruits and vegetables and costs of home ownership. Textiles and household supplies also were higher.

These offset declines for gasoline in Ontario where "price wars" had occurred in a number of cities, beef, coffee, eggs, sugar, lard, some pork cuts and coal.

The consumer price index is based on 1949 prices equalling 100.

Wage figures showed a downward tendency during March. The index of average industrial wages and salaries at April 1—latest date for which figures are available—was 169.1, based on 1949 equalling 100. This was down from 170.2 March 1 but up from 163.4 April 1 last year.

The various sub-groups that go into the consumer index showed these changes between April 1 and May 1: Food, down to 118.5 from 119.3; shelter which includes rents and home-ownership costs, up to 141 from 140.5; clothing up to 109.7 from 109.6; household operations down to 122.5 from 122.9 and other commodities and services up to 134.9 from 133.7.

FRANCE PLANS NEW CAMPAIGN IN ALGERIA

PARIS (AP)—France will never abandon Algeria, Premier Michel Debre asserted today as the new French National Assembly began its first debate on the rebellion-torn territory.

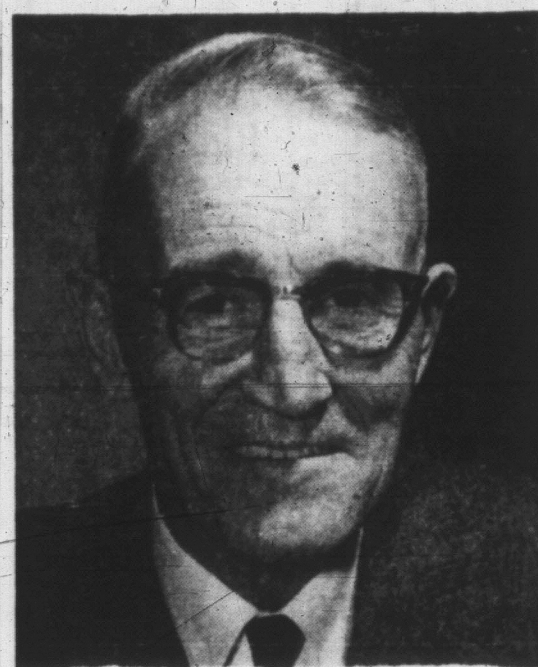

He declared a campaign would soon be undertaken to reassert France's determination to remain in control in Algeria. He said that outside aid to the rebels would be relentlessly opposed and that a blacklist would be made up of nations, organizations and companies giving aid to the rebels.

"We will take reprisals which will cost dearly to those who do not understand that solidarity with France on Algeria is essential."

Central America Fears 'Bloodbath'

HOWARD GREEN... "very challenging"

VANCOUVER LAWYER

OTTAWA (CP)—Howard Green, 63-year-old Vancouver lawyer, today was sworn in as external affairs minister.

Mr. Green, who has been federal public works minister since June, 1957, will retain that portfolio of air-acting basis until his departmental estimates for 1959-60 have been passed through the Commons.

He was sworn in his new post before Governor-General Massey at Government House.

(His appointment was forecast in a special Ottawa dispatch in the Times Tuesday.)

Mr. Green, who described his new job as "very challenging," told reporters after his appointment was announced on the Government House steps: "I'm not quite sure yet how I feel. I've only been the minister about 15 minutes."

Prime Minister Diefenbaker indicated there will be no further cabinet appointments, at least until the end of the session.

Army Build-Up In Nicaragua

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP)—Nicaragua began doubling its army today in the wake of invasion threats by opponents of dictator-President Luis Somoza.

The buildup of the armed forces got under way even though it was officially announced that the small band of rebels who invaded by air during the weekend was fleeing and no longer a danger.

The government said it was adding 2,000 men to the national guard—the nation's army—which already numbers about 2,000 active. In addition, 10,000 guard reservists are being called up for training.

In San Jose, the capital of neighboring Costa Rica, Nicaraguan rebel leader Enrique Lacayo Faria claimed that strong contingents of farmers were joining the rebels. He said a national guard force had been ambushed and a large amount of military equipment captured. A rebel radio broadcast said the rebels had suffered no more than six casualties.

Ecuador Port City Looted By Rioting Mob; 16 Dead

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador (AP)—Guayaquil counted 16 dead and nearly 200 injured today after two nights of rioting which turned into looting Wednesday night.

The rioters burned down the headquarters of the security police in this tropical port city and sacked about 40 stores, two big markets and an orphanage.

About 100 persons were caught with looted goods. They were jailed for trials set up under the martial law decreed throughout this predominantly Indian nation by President Camilo Ponce.

Col. Luis Pinero, military commander in Guayaquil, said the situation finally was brought under control at midnight with the help of university and high school students. The students had started the rioting Tuesday night in a war against the police.

Nicaragua Envoy Asks Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Nicaraguan ambassador Guillermo Sevilla-Sacasa said today "there might be a serious bloodbath" in Central America unless the Organization of American States heads a request for an investigation of the Nicaraguan invasion.

The envoy also told the OAS council that if it fails to act on his country's request, Nicaragua might be forced to take action on its own and fire at Costa Rican planes suspected of bringing more rebels into Nicaragua.

"Every day the situation grows worse," he said. "Unless the OAS acts there might be a serious bloodbath. This could cause a grave conflict between Costa Rica and Nicaragua."

The council postponed until tonight any action on the request.

Sevilla-Sacasa painted a dark picture of the situation as he fought to get the OAS council to approve a special investigation of what he called a threat to the security of the hemisphere.

MEET DELAYED

Today's council meeting was delayed as some diplomats searched for a formula short of immediate intervention. They were said to be suggesting that the council merely appoint a committee to study the issue further without invoking immediately the Inter-American Treaty of Mutual Assistance.

The treaty binds the nations of the hemisphere to take collective action to contain threats to the peace.

The council had been scheduled to meet at 11 a.m. E.D.T. (8 a.m. P.D.T.) to vote on Nicaragua's appeal for a foreign ministers meeting and for an investigation of what it called an armed, airborne invasion and threatened sea-borne attack.

COMPROMISE SEEN

However, as the meeting hour came and passed, Latin and American diplomats remained closeted in private meetings. Informed sources said possible compromise or preliminary measures short of invoking the Reciprocal Assistance Pact were being considered.

One possibility would be the appointment of a committee to study the question further. Several diplomats said privately they agreed, at least in part, with Cuba's contention that the Nicaraguan government had failed to make a convincing case that the security of the hemisphere is threatened by the small-scale landing of insurgents, many of whom are Nicaraguans.

PRESIDENT PONCE orders martial law

The renewed rioting grew out of funeral services for six of the eight persons killed in clashes Tuesday night.

Military authorities ordered a 10 p.m.-5 a.m. curfew for the city of 275,000, Ecuador's largest. President Ponce earlier had proclaimed martial law "to save the republic from anarchy and aggression."

The Communist party openly challenged the martial-law decree and appealed for a great front of popular and democratic unity to prevent dictatorship.

The general staff said in a communique that it had proof of a "dangerous" subversive plot that may threaten the very existence of the Ecuadorian nation. It blamed subversive elements, "some of them in the service of foreign interests."

THIS WORLD OF OURS

People and Things

(Times News Services)

LONDON—The peers of the realm took a look at British TV Wednesday night and decided too much nonsense is filling the tiny screen.

They used such terms as tedious, demoralizing, trivial, silly for it.

Neither the BBC nor the Independent TV Authority emerged from the Lords' debate with a clean bill.

"The other night," said Lord Boothby, "I turned on the BBC and there was a young man wriggling about behind the microphone singing a song called I Love You."

"I stood this for a little time and decided to switch to the other people. I found there was a blonde wriggling about behind a microphone singing precisely the same song."

"I didn't want to be loved by either of them so I had no option but to switch off altogether."

MILWAUKEE—An 86-year-old recluse who prowled alleys at night to pick up junk and waste paper left an estate valued at more than $500,000, the administrator of his estate reported Tuesday. Gilbert A. Kneuppel, the administrator, said that the estate of Albert Friedrich may reach $700,000. Friedrich, who died April 18, left no will. Closest of kin appears to be first cousins.

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif.—Swedish beauty Anita Ekberg rolled out of bed before dawn today and went to a police station to bail out her former husband, actor Anthony Steel, jailed on a drunk driving charge.

Board Approves Hike For Coastal Officers

OTTAWA (CP)—A federal conciliation board, in a majority report, has recommended a 20-per-cent wage increase spread over a two-year period for some 30 Pacific coast marine engineer officers, the labor department announced today.

The report dealt with the lengthy dispute between the Northland Navigation Company of Vancouver and the National Association of Marine Engineers of Canada (CLC).

The union asked for a 24-per-cent increase spread over two years while the company proposed an increase of 17 per cent spread over three years.

Magistrate Scores Frauds on Welfare

Obtaining social assistance by false pretences must stop, Magistrate William Ostler warned in city police court today.

He suspended sentence on Lajos Balog, 2640 Rose, who pleaded guilty to obtaining $52.50 welfare under false pretences by failing to declare wage advances in January and February.

"These improper assaults upon this public fund must cease," or there will be more firm treatment by the court," Magistrate Ostler said.

He put Balog on $500 bond for good behavior for six months.

Another accused, Bela Vargady, 217 Quebec, was fined $50 for giving false information to welfare officials to obtain special assistance.

Vargady had falsely told the department he did not own a car.

Willi Bradasch, 6052 Bear Hill, was remanded to Tuesday for probation report and sentence after pleading guilty to false pretences in receiving $450 welfare between Dec. 14, 1958 and March 10, 1959, by failing to declare unemployment insurance benefits.

The Department of Transport advised mariners today that naval firing practice will be carried out from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. Monday, June 8, in the area west of the Swiftsure light ship.

DOUR IN OPPOSITION, SMILING IN GOV'T

Howard Green—Changed Man

OTTAWA (CP)—Tall, spare Howard Charles Green is lively proof that a man can change his outlook on life even when he's fairly well on in years.

What changed Mr. Green—62, at least, that side of him which the public sees—was a government portfolio after 22 years on the opposition benches in the Commons. Now Mr. Green, 63, is Prime Minister Diefenbaker's choice for the external affairs post, left vacant March 17 by the death of Hon. Sidney Smith.

The bespectacled Mr. Green was dour and unhumorous when in opposition. He used to drive the Liberals nearly frantic with his unrelenting curiosity about the most minute details of government business.

WILL SPLIT A COMMA

A delegate at the 1956 convention which chose Mr. Diefenbaker as Progressive Conservative leader said of Mr. Green after a long private session of a resolutions committee: "That man Green—he'll even try to split a comma."

The industrious, dogged

Vancouver lawyer was once described by former Liberal trade minister C. D. Howe as a perambulating prognosticator of gloom who stalked the halls of Parliament with Bible in one hand and stiletto in the other.

Nobody would dream of applying this description today. Mr. Green is a changed man; with an expansive good humor that disarms the opposition.

When the Liberals and the CCF criticize in the Commons, Mr. Green says with a broad grin: "You're just whining. Believe me, because I know something about whining. I used to be about the best whiner in the House."

It's hard to get angry at a man who wisecracks after 22 unsmiling years and the opposition regards Mr. Green with affection.

Mr. Green has been a "Diefenbaker man" for years and holds the prime minister in the highest esteem. He never talks out of turn or makes statements that might later

LOYALTY RECIPROCATED

His loyalty to the prime minister is fully reciprocated. He is senior member of the cabinet and acting prime minister when Mr. Diefenbaker is away. He is minister of public works and government house leader. His only real connection with foreign affairs was his membership on the Commons external affairs committee and there he was not so much concerned with foreign policy as how the department spent its money.

He dislikes travel and has never been in Europe since he served in the 54th Kootenay Battalion overseas in the First World War. But then, Opposition Leader Pearson, former external affairs minister, dislikes plane travel intensely.

Mr. Green was born at Kaslo, B.C., November 5, 1895. Educated at Kaslo, the University of Toronto and Osgoode Hall law school in Toronto, he was elected to the Commons in 1935 on his first try and has been re-elected six times since. He first represented Vancouver South and has been the member for Vancouver Quadra since 1949.

He was married in 1923 and has two sons, Lewis, of nearby Manotick, Ont., and John, of Agassiz, B.C. After his first wife died he remarried in 1956.

Message to Oak Bay Voters

From Mr. John D. Watts, P.Eng.

In the present election as in other recent elections there has been a tendency for persons of known and advertised party political affiliations to seek office. It is traditional that municipal government be kept free from party politics. I trust that you will agree with this well established principle and select your new councillors solely on the basis of their personal ability and standing. I wish it known that I am not a member of any political party and that I am not receiving assistance from any political party—I am seeking your vote only because I feel I am well qualified by training and experience to serve you as a councillor.

Stalling Tactics Charged By Liberal

(From Times News Services)

OTTAWA—Paul Martin says Prime Minister Diefenbaker is stalling to help Premier Frost's Progressive Conservative government through next week's provincial election and at the same time provide an excuse for ditching an election promise.

The Liberal MP from Essex East was referring Wednesday to a July 6 conference here of provincial finance ministers. Finance Minister Fleming and senior civil servants on federal-provincial fiscal relations.

The meeting, he said, will decide nothing because all that remains to be decided is a formula for payments to the provinces for federal use of direct taxation fields.

That sort of decision can be made only by the cabinet.

One More Year

Mr. Martin spoke during debate on a federal proposal to continue for another year the current tax-rental agreement under which the provinces receive 13 per cent of personal income tax collections, 9 per cent of corporation income tax revenue and 50 per cent of succession duties.

All provinces except Quebec, which has its own income tax, participate in this arrangement.

Mr. Martin said Premier Frost has said he wants $115,000,000 more from the agreements on the basis of 15 per cent of personal income taxes, 15 per cent of corporation taxes and 50 per cent of succession duties. He said all provinces now favor this formula.

But with a provincial election in Ontario June 11, refusal of this demand would embarrass Mr. Frost. So a July 6 meeting was called.

'Debauching'

Finance Minister Fleming said Wednesday CCF criticism of government borrowings amount to advocating "debauching the Canadian currency by printing more money or to compulsory borrowing from Canadian wage earners."

He said that even the provincial treasurer of the CCF government in Saskatchewan resorts to the money market to borrow when the need arises.

Mr. Fleming was replying to Erhart Reigier (CCF-Burnaby-Coquitlam) who said that faced by the need to raise $2,000,000,000 before next March 31 the government "is placing its undying faith in the money market and hoping that events and circumstances will rescue it from the dilemma in which it now is."

Mr. Fleming should admit "he's in hot water," confess to the people rather than playing with their future welfare and tell them "our britches have not expanded with the growth of the boy... and now many parts of his anatomy are exposed and advantage is being taken of his nakedness."

'Over Barrel'

The investors know they had Mr. Fleming "over a barrel" and that they could extort "a little more blood than they now extort." That was why Mr. Fleming had to pay 5 1/2 per cent on the one-year treasury bills which really were one-year bonds under a treasury bill name.

The exchange between Mr. Fleming and Mr. Reigier occurred as the House approved a government motion for an interim money supply of $634,617,000 to pay its June and July bills. Interim supply of $616,634,878 was granted earlier to pay bills for April and May. Such interim supply is needed until the House passes the government's detailed spending program for the year, as yet hardly touched.

Mr. Fleming said that in criticizing the government's borrowings, including the one-year treasury bills for $600,000 on which bids were accepted Tuesday night, the CCF financial critic failed to offer any other alternative than printing more money or taking it from the people by compulsory means.

The Commons Wednesday gave third and final reading to the government's bill establishing a national energy board. The legislation now goes to the Senate.

ONT. VOTE 'A TEST OF MORALITY'

TORONTO (CP)—M. J. Coldwell, CCF national leader, said Wednesday the June 11 Ontario election would be "a test of political morality in Ontario."

In any other democracy, he said, the resignation of three government members over "a scandal such as the one here in natural gas, would have meant the resignation of the government."

He said the main issue of the election campaign is "clean and good government" as an answer to the involvement of the Frost government in a highway scandal and, recently, the natural gas scandal.

AIRLINER ON BUSY PACIFIC ROUTE

Soviet Jets 'Watch' U.S. Plane

TOKYO (AP)—Jet planes, believed to be Russian, made three observation approaches on American airliner over the north Pacific today more than 200 miles off Soviet territory, Northwest Airlines reported.

The U.S. Air Force said it had no planes in the area at the time, prompting speculation that Soviet fighters had approached the Seattle-Tokyo northwest DC-7C.

The plane crew reported that the closest approach came within two or three miles but the plane or planes did not cross in front of the airliner. The American plane continued on course and reached Tokyo ahead of schedule. Its 46 passengers were asleep and apparently unaware of the incident.

An airline spokesman said from vapor trails and specks in the dawn sky it was assumed two or three jets were involved. The planes dropped two flares, presumably to identify the American craft.

The airliner's captain, Ira Bortles of Seattle, said the first approach was made from the direction of Siberia by a single jet fighter. He said the plane "changed course as if to cross in front of us, and when he was two to three miles from us, turned left and away."

Less than a minute later, Bortles continued, a bright white flare was spotted and the airliner passed within a mile or two of it.

While watching the flare, the plane crew saw another jet—or the first one—appear again on the right, come within 10 miles, then turn away. A minute or two later another jet appeared on the same side, came within 10 or 15 miles and disappeared behind the airliner.

Sudden Change of Mind

BECAUSE IT IS TECHNICAL, complex and dull, a recent debate in the Canadian Parliament on the subject of money has been little noted by the public. But it is a notable debate just the same and raises grave questions affecting every family in the land.

It reveals, moreover, a fundamental change in the Diefenbaker Government's thinking in the whole field of finance.

The Government assumed, in its carefree Opposition days, that on taking office it could easily drive down the interest rates which, it held, were damaging the Canadian economy. Lately, however, Mr. Fleming has declared in a series of able speeches that interest rates and, indeed, all monetary policy, are entirely outside the Government's control, just as the former Government asserted and the Conservative Party then denied.

In a remarkable discovery of the obvious facts Mr. Fleming says: "I wish to make it quite clear that the Government, as such, does not exercise control over the money supply or over the amount of money in circulation."

Only the Bank of Canada, Mr. Fleming finds, can determine the amount of money in circulation and in this respect the Bank is absolutely independent of the Government by law.

In addition, Mr. Fleming now says—ignoring his party's contrary statements in two election campaigns—that interest rates are not determined by the Government. They result entirely from the impact of demand upon the money supply in the money market. And since the demand at present is heavy and the supply definitely limited by the Bank of Canada, naturally the price of money, in the form of interest rates, is high—higher than ever.

For these difficult conditions Mr. Fleming says the Government is not to blame. It is powerless by law to cure them. Yet Mr. Fleming and his colleagues denounced the former Government for failing to cure them. Knowledge of the law and the whole fiscal system has come late to Mr. Fleming but better late than never.

Anyone who has a stake in the value of money—that is to say virtually everyone in the nation—must have been encouraged to hear Mr. Fleming declare the independence of the Bank of Canada, which has no wish to inflate the currency any further after last year's inflation. But how independent is the bank in fact as well as in theory? We may soon find out.

Mr. Fleming had hardly finished explaining that he could do nothing about the size of the money supply, and hence about interest rates, before he suddenly seemed to reverse himself. On April 27 he was telling Parliament that only the bank could expand the currency. On May 19, however, in an astounding statement, he said this:

"If the (private) banks find that they have not an ample amount of money to meet the extraordinary demands that are made upon them for credit as a result of the upsurge in the Canadian economy, then certainly it is not the intention of the Canadian Government to inflict on the people of Canada a repetition of the tight-money policy of our Liberal predecessors."

If this means what it seems to mean Mr. Fleming changed his mind completely within three weeks. On April 27 the Government could not loosen the money supply; on May 18 it was determined to do so if it felt that another dose of inflation was required.

If the central bank is independent by law, as Mr. Fleming says, it can refuse to expand the money supply even if the Government wants it expanded. But Mr. Fleming seems to think that the bank will go along with government policy whatever it may be from time to time.

This is a big assumption. For in his annual report not long ago the brilliant governor of the bank, Mr. James Coyne, said flatly that the money supply was expanded last year—solely to rescue the Government's flagging bond sales—as far as he and his colleagues were prepared to go. Beyond that limit he saw a serious inflationary danger.

Mr. Fleming may have changed his mind twice in the last two years. There is no reason to think Mr. Coyne's mind has changed. And thus the net result of Parliament's long, laborious and complicated debate is, at the moment, an increasing state of confusion.

Waiting for the Bid

THE WESTERN ALLIES ARE now putting pressure on Russia to make some commitment that will ensure a subsequent summit meeting.

It is assumed that Mr. Khrushchev is still anxious to meet President Eisenhower face to face—an obvious objective of much of his manoeuvring over the past year or more. What the Soviet leader will do—what he will propose—when that moment comes, is not known. But his wish for such a meeting has been expressed more than once; his hints have been even more frequent.

Now the West is waiting to see what Mr. Khrushchev will bid in order to gain his objective. Mr. Eisenhower has already made it plain that unless the current Geneva conference of foreign ministers produces some tangible advancement of the international situation there will be no point in talking at the summit.

At the moment the Geneva meetings are being held in secret. They are also, apparently, being held in a stalemate.

The original proposals of East and West have by now been almost forgotten. The plans advanced for solution of the Berlin problem and the wider question of German reunification were more matters of form than serious solutions, since the submissions of both sides had been rejected in advance.

Possible fields of compromise have appeared in the use of West Berlin as a propaganda centre and as a military post.

Russia has demanded that the flood of news and opinion and the espionage agents sent from West Berlin to the people of East Germany be stopped. The West has refused this but hinted that a cessation of Communist interference and espionage in the West might carry some persuasion.

Withdrawal of Western forces from West Berlin has been refused along with a proposal to include Soviet troops in the garrison. But it has been suggested that a ceiling might be placed on the size of the Western occupation forces as a move toward meeting Russian objections.

These are not yet official stands, but they indicate the form of tentative horse-trading that is going on today. And if they are the major items of progress so far, the conference is still a long way from success.

Living on 'the Ones That Get Away'

MR. ANGUS MACLEAN, Canada's minister of fisheries, has directed an interesting warning to 13 members of the International Commission for the Northwest Atlantic Fisheries.

He has urged them not to become so efficient in their methods that they wipe out the reserves of fish.

The warning might be applied with equal force on the Pacific Coast. Here international regulations limit fishing periods and fishing areas for certain species in order to guarantee the escape of enough fish to reproduce themselves.

This is a nicely-balanced issue, specifically in the case of salmon. Scientists have pointed out that under normal conditions, only a pair of salmon survive to reach the spawning beds from the thousands of eggs laid and fertilized by a pair of parent salmon. In other words, they merely reproduce themselves after predators, other natural hazards and commercial fishing interests have exacted their toll.

Mr. MacLean's remarks catch public interest here because, in recent years, parties to fisheries conventions have complained, one against another, that fishermen from partner nations are taking too many fish at certain times.

Each nation—and signers of the Pacific salmon pact include Canada, the United States and Japan—wishes lest the others outfish it.

It is vital that all co-operate to allow a sufficient run to make its way to natal streams to propagate.

But in British Columbia another element has assumed pre-eminence. That is the conflict between fish and power in those natal streams. The provincial government is on record to the effect that no salmon streams will be destroyed. At the same time the economic argument of the power people grows increasingly strong.

If it eventually prevails, then discussions of the point raised by Mr. MacLean become merely forensic exercises.

The one fact that cannot be ignored is that fish is food. No electric grill can cook it if the hydro-electric development which provides the power eliminates the fish.

Camp is no Place for Virtue

ONE can tolerate in a summer camp, says my neighbor of the woods, Mr. Horace Snifkin, guests who bring ordinary vices with them. But the guest who has just sworn off tobacco will demoralize any woodland household.

Such a guest is a lady and a beautiful one turned up at Mr. Snifkin's camp a few days ago and, in her newly-found virtue, played havoc with all the domestic arrangements. Heaven save us, says Mr. Snifkin, from viceless visitors.

To begin with, the lady embarked on a campaign of humiliation. With all the religious zeal of the newly converted, she lectured Mr. Snifkin on the evils of tobacco and reiterated, several times an hour, that her health had greatly improved since she stopped smoking. As she had stopped the previous day, that improvement was indeed remarkable, a new discovery in medical science.

MR. Snifkin could only reply that he felt pretty good, despite all the poisonous nicotine in his system. But the lady insisted that he could not possibly feel as well as she did and, to prove it, engaged in various athletic exercises to make Mr. Snifkin feel debilitated. He felt debilitated enough without her example, but he said nothing and sought his usual escape from guests in the deep woods.

That was a mistake. In his absence two of his cigarettes and he was very short of them at the moment—but mysteriously disappeared. Mrs. Snifkin also noticed that a new box of chocolates, a gift from one of her admirers, was rapidly diminishing in content and, of course, she blamed her husband who never touches candy.

TOWARDS the end of the first day the visiting lady appeared to be in a highly nervous state. She could not sit long in one place, she couldn't stop talking, she lectured, with rising excitement, on the dangers of tobacco and she developed an insatiable appetite for chewing gum.

There happened to be only one stick of gum in the camp, left over from last summer, and nibbled at the end by mice. The lady chewed it furiously throughout the evening and, on retiring at night, carefully preserved it in a piece of waxed paper for use next day.

Meanwhile Mr. Snifkin resorted to a pipe, which he hates, to conserve his supply of cigarettes. They were dwindling rapidly. The lady denied, with fine moral indignation, that she had touched them but in her bedroom Mrs. Snifkin sniffed an aroma of smoke at midnight and would have called the village fire department. If Mr. Snifkin hadn't stopped her, "He had enjoyed a wide experience with newly reformed smokers."

THE lady's health continued to improve rapidly on the second day. She couldn't get enough to eat. As she said, her powerful appetite was a sure sign of her recovery from years of loose living.

She felt so good, in fact, that she spent most of the day lecturing in a high-pitched, hysterical voice, on the rewards of virtue and the rest of the time depleting the larder. Little food was left in the camp and the last of Mr. Snifkin's cigarettes was gone. "Virtue," as he reflected, is a costly business.

THEN the lady stood on the scales, found that she had gained five pounds and uttered a piercing shriek. At this rate, she said, her health would be ruined by overweight, and besides, her clothes already felt too tight.

So she resolved to diet drastically and nourished herself on that single stick of chewing gum from the waxed paper. It was rather stale by now, Mr. Snifkin guessed, but it was still chewable and it took a lot of punishment as the lady's jaws worked convulsively between lectures on the dangers of nicotine.

She also resolved to reduce her intake of fluids which, as everyone knows, build up avoirdupois—but she made an exception of beer, which is guaranteed to reduce anyone's weight.

The drain on Mr. Snifkin's beer supply was heavy but he didn't mind that so much as the continual attrition on his ears. He had to stay in the woods most of the time, cutting wood, to avoid the lectures and Mrs. Snifkin, hiding in the kitchen, said she would go stark mad if she heard another word about tobacco. By evening everyone in camp was stark mad, especially the lady who rejoiced in her new-found sanity.

BUT the lady was generous and understanding just the same. She said everyone could not summon her resources of self-control and urged Mr. Snifkin to buy some more cigarettes at the store to assuage his hideous yearning. Virtue, as she said, was not for everybody.

Mr. Snifkin therefore walked a mile and bought a package of cigarettes and, though he smoked only two of them that evening, half the box was empty when he went to bed and at midnight Mrs. Snifkin repeated her alarm of fire.

Next morning the lady announced that her recovery from vice was complete and unalterable. She said she had nothing but pity for poor Mr. Snifkin, the slave of nicotine, and she hurriedly drove back to town, pausing at the village store to make a small purchase. The Snifkin camp is quiet now. It is back to normal and to vice.

June 4, 1899 — San Francisco: There was excitement aboard the Alameda docking here from Australia when it was discovered a box containing 5,000 sovereigns was missing.

June 4, 1919 — Berlin: Possible accusations of revived militarism were evoked today when both war and defence ministers re-established the military salute, previously banned.

As Our Readers See It

'Unwanted' by Whom?

That the colossal tonnage of stockpiled wheat, meat, butter and eggs, etc., subsidized by the taxpayers for that very purpose on this continent, is "unwanted produce" is an utter fallacy.

The so-called bright "new order" of this 20th century is obviously one invented for the stratification of society. There is, as is commonly known, a "kaput" system, working overtime to control the minutest detail of the "little" people's existence, while building up a superfluity of bureaucracies in order so to do. Small farmers, like small merchants, are being sucked up by both the monopolies, and the chain stores, in order to make of humans nothing short of cattle, given limited money to spend, by favor of the all powerful hierarchy who are wallowing in the products of a comparable annexation. The objective is more than obvious, and that is to be the submerging of the "individual" as such, to the new culture of "to those that have shall be given," and the rest of so-called "civilization" to be pushed back, far, far below the salt to make room for the new power "elite."

"Products nobody wants." What small income group or old age pensioners can afford to buy beef steak on this continent? They are lucky enough if they get sufficient bread, minus the tonnage of butter, withheld in the interest of lust by the "shadow" powers thirsting for world control, ably assisted by the governments of all the smaller countries, through the modernized fashion of bestowing "gifts" as did the ancient Greeks.

Mr. George on Wenner-Gren

In reply to "Voter's" letter of May 28, I can assure "Voter" that the press has a prepared statement from me on nuclear and Peace River Power. If "Voter" will furnish me with a postal address, I will be pleased to send him a copy of this statement.

"Voter" asks if I see anything in the latest developments in the Peace River country. I see several things, one of which follows.

When I asked, last December, if it were not British Columbia's mineral and timber wealth that interested Mr. Wenner-Gren and his associates, it was not an idle question. In the past Mr. Wenner-Gren has offered his grandiose schemes in other countries and has not brought them to fruition. If we appreciate the fact that Mr. Wenner-Gren is an astute business man and that the sole interest of this financial group in British Columbia is the opportunity afforded them to make money out of the province's natural resources, then we must realize that every avenue to their goal has been explored and every foreseeable contingency has been considered.

Success in the art of sleight of hand lies in the mastery of misdirection and the same technique is frequently used in business of this sort. Until now the attention of our citizens has been cleverly directed to a novel monorail system and a vast hydro-electric scheme.

It remained for the Wall Street Journal to disclose that while conducting his timber and hydro-electric survey, Mr. Wenner-Gren was also conducting a mineral survey, registering some 460 claims under the name of Totem Minerals Ltd. This disclosure suggests that the Americans are closely watching Mr. Wenner-Gren's activities in this strategic area, and are more concerned about them than is our Provincial Government.

Certainly, the members of the Social Credit cabinet know, and have known, that the enrichment of uranium must be under the control of the Government of Canada. Even to them it must not seem feasible for the energy for its manufacture to be under the control of, and sold to us by a Swedish national, now resident in Mexico.

Was this one of the contingencies foreseen by the Wenner-Gren associates and the Social Credit government? Did Mr. Bonner speak on cue? Are we approaching the final act in this power play, when the audience will discover there is nothing in the right hand, after all, but that the left hand has been very busy?

If so we should not be too surprised if Mr. Wenner-Gren drops the plan for the monorail and the hydro-electric development of the Peace River, using the excuse that in the event the federal government decides to use Peace River power as a source of energy for a uranium enrichment plant, they will insist that such hydro-electric sources also be under federal control. Mr. Wenner-Gren could then retire with his not inconsiderable consolation prizes of timber and mineral wealth.

Whether or not this is the objective, the people of British Columbia should be given the opportunity of approving or disapproving of the donation of one-tenth of our province to a foreign financier and no firm agreement of any kind should be reached until the whole affair has been discussed in the provincial legislature.

Humanity's Existence

I read in your paper of some remarks of Drs. Thompson and Jan Von Stolk, fearing the implication of the dread effects of strontium "ninety" on genetics. Am I presumptuous in assuming that it is high time the common, Christian people demand that the "creating" of this horrible danger of worldwide slaughter be brought to an end?

I here submit a rhyming suggestion: Strontium ninety and mutation Will provide some variation For the lonely intellectual at his play. For that, begin that's ever seeking To keep radiation leaking. Never mind if unborn babies are his prey.

Oh the hellishness and sorrow He shall wreak upon the morrow If the Christian world won't suddenly awake

And ban atom bombs and missiles, Better far, make children's whistles, For humanity's existence is at stake.

FROM WARSAW

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Fine Party at Lowicz

THEY had a fine party at Lowicz in honor of the Body and Blood of Our Lord. It sounds shockingly irreverent when put that way. Yet it is really the best way to describe this vast celebration of Corpus Christi, which was the very opposite of irreverent. Too many years have passed since this reporter used to cover Sunday morning sermons for the greatest city editor of our times, Stanley Walker. It seems more than a little strange to be doing the same sort of thing, on a larger scale, more than a quarter of a century later, and on the other side of the iron curtain. But in this part of the world, if you wish to sense the deepest feelings of the people, you must go to the old Coronation Church in Budapest, or to Corpus Christi in Lowicz.

Something else could be sensed in Lowicz, too, as one began to realize on the short drive out from Warsaw. Lowicz is a little town that is chiefly famous as the place where Napoleon met his last love, Maria Walecka, and as the centre of the district which has the prettiest peasant costumes in Poland.

The costumes the Lowicz people wear in their Corpus Christi procession make it a great annual attraction, and half Warsaw seemed to be on the way to Lowicz.

Great Attraction

Automobiles of every make, motor scooters, motorcycles, and put-up, equipped bicycles of every description, even fleets of unmechanized bicycles furiously propelled by muscular bicycle racing enthusiasts produced a serious traffic problem.

Among the many forms of misery that humankind is heir to, traffic problems alone have always been utterly unknown on this side of the famous curtain. What would have been normal in Nyack was amazing on the Lowicz road.

The state of the road forecast the state of the town. The cathedral square, with its war memorial to the one-fifth of the population of Lowicz killed by the Germans, was one continuous, slowly milling crowd. The cathedral itself, a minor marvel of Polish baroque, affluting turrets, flying angels, and elegantly gesturing saints, was so jammed one could hardly get in beyond the doors.

As the priest placed the golden monstrance on the altar pinnacle, the hymn to the Host poured from several thousand throats with extraordinary emotion. "With this body, with this blood save us and bless us, O Lord."

All Kinds

Well dressed professional men and blue-jeaned university students, young "hooligans" with their long hair, and sober, dark-clad working families, and people of every other sort including even a stray Communist official or two, had all come out to Lowicz to the party there.

The fun fair in the square was suspended when the mass ended, and the cathedral bells tolled, and the Corpus Christi procession made its way into the open air.

It was indeed a sight worth seeing—the girls and women in their embroidered bodices and astounding layers of skirts striped green and blue and red and black and purple and yellow, and the men in their black jerkins and yellow striped pantaloons; the endless line of bannermen, habited and bedecked with flowers; the old men with their tinkling bells; and at the end, the Host in its monstrance under its silken canopy.

The whole crowd bowed in silent reverence as the Host was carried through its ranks.

Object Attained

After that, the object of the day's excursion had been officially attained. But in all honesty, it must be said that the real object, at least for the many thousands of sightseers from Warsaw, had not been quite attained as yet. Most of them must have been believers—most Poles are—but pleasure was what they chiefly sought in Lowicz.

So the town's sole restaurant was packed as in a subway rush. Every other restaurant and cafe within twenty kilometers was soon crowded, too. The roadside from Lowicz to Warsaw was strewn all afternoon with groups of cheerful picnickers.

The muscular bicycle racers even took a quiet dip in the little river. It was all very innocent and gay and simple and above all very astonishing. For if religion is there already, and pleasure comes creeping insidiously in, and faint traces of prosperity begin to appear as well, how can a theoretically iron society keep its iron unrusty? That is the question which makes the party at Lowicz really worth describing.

The Secret Talismans

A TALISMAN, thought Laura, half-hearing the conversation of the people visiting the woman in the bed next hers. What an unexpected word to crop up in a hospital ward. But apparently it had something to do with the book the patient had been reading.

"I'm not sure of it, exactly," Laura said to herself. "It's a magic charm. I think, to ward off evil and bring good fortune. A tangible thing, like a cross or a medallion or, maybe, a rabbit's foot."

But there were intangible talismans, too, she reflected during the long afternoon that brought her no visitors.

A talisman might be a precept, she thought, or a lesson learned many years ago. For, in their way, they too had the power to ward off evil.

It might be a line of poetry, a piece of music, a flower, a scent, a view, or some dear familiar object that evoked a memory which brought peace or strength in a time of grief or pain.

From somewhere in "The Brothers Karamazov," Laura vaguely remembered a statement that even one good memory carried over from our childhood might be the means of saving us later on.

"They're different for each of us," she said to herself. "And we never know at the time which happening will stay with us."

YOUR HEALTH

Infant Brains

Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

In a recent column, I was trying to explain why it is that brain physiologists have no sympathy with the weird theories of psychoanalysts in regard to the supposed bad results in adult life of psychic shocks received by a fetus in the womb, or an infant being born, or an infant in the first year or two of his life, when he is supposed to be mentally injured by all sorts of impressions from, perhaps, two persons observed in sex plays. The brain physiologist can give many reasons for finding it impossible to take stock in these theories.

He says there is every reason to believe that a fetus in the womb or a child being born, or an infant hasn't much of a brain to take in and remember hurtful impressions. The newborn infant has to spend months and years in learning to understand what he sees or feels or hears or tastes or touches. A boy or girl who is born blind and, after an operation at the age of perhaps 20 years, sees the light, and the world for the first time, has to spend much time learning to understand what he or she sees.

Today, as I was re-reading a remarkable book written by a highly intelligent young woman who, for a while, was insane, I ran onto the best explanation of this sort of thing that I have ever seen. Miss Hillyer said in her book "Reluctantly Told" (Macmillan) that after a while in a mental hospital her brain was so injured that she was again like an infant who has to learn what sounds and other sensations mean. As she wrote, "Sounds came to my ears. I was unable to translate them into the milkman's cart, the doctor's machine, or ice cream freezer; they were just so many vibrations hitting my eardrums."

When I was perhaps four years old and lying in my crib after a nap, I felt what my untrained brain told me was a touch on my back. On turning around quickly, to see who was there, and finding no one, I was much frightened. Many times since I have had the same sensation, but then I recognized that it was due to a twitch in one of the muscles of my back. I can imagine how, in my first year of life I had to learn not to be frightened by loud sounds; I had to learn to tell, by looking into a person's face, whether he or she was friendly or hostile; I had to learn when meeting a dog the significance of a friendly look and a wagging tail.

I had to learn not to taste certain things, and I had to learn not to touch things that were likely to be hot. I had to learn never to fall out of bed; actually, I had to learn the meaning of thousands of sensations my nerves kept bringing me.

That is why it seems so silly to brain physiologists to ascribe all sorts of thoughts to an infant who is being born, or worse yet, to a fetus who is not yet even ready to be born. I have in my library a big thick book filled with claims by an analyst as to all the injurious impressions that he was sure a fetus can get!

There was no end of it, thought Laura, letting her mind wander among her personal talismans and among those she'd garnered from other people.

"No visitors this afternoon?" said the nurse, bustling in.

"No," said Laura, "but it's passed quite pleasantly. I just dreamed and dozed a little."

HOME GARDEN

By HILDA BEASTALL

Look After the Lilacs

If lilac is one of your favorite shrubs you may feel that something should be done about the ones already in the garden.

While the plant is young every effort should be made to have it produce healthy, sturdy growth. Plenty of bone meal in the soil at planting time is a fine beginning, and during the summer ample moisture should be provided.

While a lilac is still small it is an excellent idea to cut off the blooms as they begin to fade. This will prevent the formation of seed-pods which drain the vitality of any plant.

With older bushes which have become overgrown, it is wise to cut out some of the oldest wood close to soil level each year, after flowering.

Modern lilacs are better colors, more fragrant, and have larger blossoms than the old types. There are, as well, many double varieties. Those originated at Ottawa by Isabella Preston are useful in any part of Canada since they are extremely hardy.

Lilacs growing on their own roots may be allowed to produce some suckers growth, but only the strongest of these should be allowed to remain. Plants known to be grafted should have all suckers removed. If allowed to grow they will do so at the expense of the grafted variety.

In addition to the ordinary shrub lilacs, there are available grafted standards with six feet of stem before the cascade of bloom commences.

There is also a Japanese tree lilac with small creamy white flower clusters in June, and a low mounded shrub lilac with deep pink flowers.

The last two have not been noticed locally, but have appeared in various horticultural magazines, together with a lilac named "Primrose".

U.K. LABOR MP SEEKS TO NATIONALIZE TIMES

LONDON (Reuters)—Labor MP Emrys Hughes announced today he will seek next week to introduce a bill in Parliament "to nationalize The Times newspaper."

The Times, independent national daily, created a political sensation this week by reporting that Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, now taking part in the Geneva foreign ministers conference, was to be replaced.

Prime Minister Macmillan denied this in the House of Commons.

WITH DEFENCE CHIEF

Mr. K in Hungary For Balkan Talks

BUDAPEST (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, tanned and relaxed after spending more than a week in Albania, arrived here today for talks with Hungarian leaders before returning to Moscow.

Khrushchev, accompanied by Soviet Defence Minister Marshal Rodion Malinovsky, arrived in a Soviet TU-104 jet transport. Khrushchev presumably will discuss plans for a conference of Balkan government heads which Moscow announced Wednesday night. The purpose, the magazine New Times said, would be to ban nuclear weapons from the Balkans.

In his speeches in Albania Khrushchev coupled demands that nuclear weapons be kept out of southeast Europe with warnings to Italy and Greece not to permit bases for U.S. nuclear missiles. Khrushchev said if they did admit such weapons, the Soviet Union might have to put missile bases in Albania or other Balkan Communist states.

Canada Plan Gets Support

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada has won support from United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld for its plan for a UN role in Berlin, informants say.

At the NATO meeting at Washington in April, Canada proposed that the UN might play a useful role in Berlin—provided a four-power agreement is reached first.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said in the Commons April 7: "The basic role of the UN might be to verify that all parties were abiding by the terms of the agreement."

"An essential part of the agreement might be a Soviet pledge binding itself and its associates to full freedom of access to West Berlin and the acceptance of a UN presence on the lines of communication to that city."

Informants here say that what Canada has in mind is definitely not a UN force similar to the one now serving on the Egypt-Israel frontier but rather a judicial or appeal body—similar to the true supervisory commissions in India.

Mr. Hammarskjöld, it is understood, is opposed to establishment of any UN garrison in Berlin but endorses the idea of UN observers being stationed there and along the lines of communication once the Big Four reach an agreement—if they do.

Canada was among the first countries to suggest a role for the UN in Berlin but apparently no serious discussion has taken place on this point at the current Geneva conference.

CCF RETAINS SEAT IN SASK. BY-ELECTION

WAKAW, Sask. (CP)—The CCF government of Saskatchewan, in its first test since the 1956 general provincial election, retained the Kinistino seat in a by-election Wednesday.

Arthur Thibault, CCF candidate in the three-way race, scored a decisive victory.

With all 52 polls reported, Mr. Thibault had 2,871 votes, far ahead of Liberal candidate Albert M. Connor, with 1,611, and Progressive Conservative Harvey Gjesdal, who polled 1,560 votes.

The by-election was called to fill the vacancy caused by the death March 8 of CCF member Henry Begrand.

Standing in the legislature following Mr. Thibault's win: CCF 36, Liberals 14, Social Credit 3. Total 53.

Wengren, BCE Protest Tax

OTTAWA (CP)—A protest against a long-standing tax on electric power exports was made Wednesday to the Senate banking committee by the British Columbia Electric Company and the Peace River Power Development Company Limited.

B.C. Electric said the tax of three one-hundredths of a cent per kilowatt hour constitutes the only export levy that the exporting country of Canada imposes on any commodity.

President W. C. Mainwaring of the Wenner-Gren controlled Peace River company said the continued tax could be "disastrous" to plans for hydro development of the Peace River—a project that might represent $1,000,000,000 investment when finished and which would depend on exports to the U.S.

WOULD BE A STATUTE

The senate committee is studying amendments to the Excise Tax Act already approved by the Commons. One section pertains to the electric export tax which previously was regulated by cabinet order and now would be set forth in a statute.

There is no change in the tax rate, however.

The two companies asked the committee to recommend that the electric power clause be set aside and that the same action be taken when the national energy board bill gets to the Senate later this session.

Mayors' Conference Ends — Didn't Get Main Goal

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP)—The Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities ended its annual convention Wednesday night with no apparent progress towards one of its major goals—a better financial deal from senior levels of government.

Delegates were generally satisfied with their other accomplishments as they started home but several were brooding about Prime Minister Diefenbaker's speech Tuesday night.

Mr. Diefenbaker told the 500 delegates his government has committed itself as far as it can go for the present. He cut short any possibility of a federal-provincial-municipal meeting in the near future, something described as a must by Mayor H. G. R. Mews of St. John's, Nfld., the outgoing president.

CAN'T BEAR LOAD
Mayor Robert M. Simpson of Arnprior, Ont., elected to the president's chair Tuesday, said he was "firmly of the opinion that the senior governments will have to contribute more because present municipal tax sources can't bear the load they carry now."

But delegates decided Wednesday against renewing their bid for a tri-level meeting and for a realignment of taxation power.

"What we need is a complete realignment of taxing authority," Mayor Simpson said. "The present system has been in effect since Confederation and they have taken away some revenue sources such as the right to administer municipal income tax."

While municipalities had been relieved of the burden of social services, they still have to pay most of the cost of education which has steadily climbed.

BORROW NOW
Delegates were told municipalities should do their borrowing now because money will continue to be tight for some time.

Walter J. McCarthy of Montreal, assistant treasurer of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, said Canada's business outlook shows "that a return to easier credit conditions is unlikely to occur soon."

$25,500 in Rewards To Catch 8 Murderers

VANCOUVER (CP)—A total of $25,500 in reward money is being held here for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any eight murderers who have struck in the city since 1954.

MAYORS ELECT SCURRAH AGAIN

Mayor Percy Scurrell Wednesday was re-elected honorary secretary of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities at its North Bay, Ont., convention.

Mayor R. M. Simpson, Arnprior, Ont., succeeded Mayor H. G. R. Mews of St. John's, Nfld., as the federation's president.

SHRUM REPORT

Strachan Couldn't Get Copy

Copies of the Shrum royal commission's second interim report were turned over to some Vancouver newspapers but denied the leader of the opposition, CCF research secretary John Wood complained here Wednesday.

CCF leader Robert Strachan asked Mr. Wood to obtain a copy of the report which was made public by the premier in Vancouver last month. When Mr. Wood was refused, Mr. Strachan said the premier was "going back on his word."

Dan Ekman, secretary to the premier, said the refusal was only given because no more copies of the report were at hand. Only nine were printed. "I am sure Mr. Strachan will get a copy when one is available," he said.

Today, Mr. Wood commented that although two copies were available in the premier's office when he made the request, he was refused permission even to make a copy of one of them.

Now, a museum, Fort Wellington, at Prescott, Ont., was built in 1812 to guard the Montreal-Kingston supply line.

But anyone with information has less than a year to make a claim because the rewards will expire May 14, 1960.

The total represents $13,500 sponsored by the city and $12,000 put up by individuals.

A statement from the rewards committee said that persons with information should be prepared to come forward within a year of the date the reward is posted.

"It should be understood that the withdrawal of a reward does not mean abandonment of the search for the persons responsible, or that any new information will not be thoroughly investigated," the statement said.

Outstanding rewards are: $500 for the murder of Robert David Hopkins on Nov. 5, 1954; $1,000 for the murder of Low Gum Chew, Dec. 24, 1956; $2,000 for the murder of Mrs. Evelyn Mary Roche, April 9, 1958; $14,000 for the murder of David H. Pauls, his wife and daughter, June 13, 1958; $2,000 for the murder of Horace Graham Randall, Nov. 24, 1958; $2,000 for the murder of E. J. S. Bevesford, Jan. 15, 1959; and $2,000 for the murder of Robert White, March 9, 1959.

IWA Presents Wage Demands Before Board

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 72-page brief detailing its demands for a 20-per-cent across the board wage increase and fringe benefits was presented by the International Woodworkers of America (IWA) today to a conciliation board, appointed to hear the union's dispute with 134 British Columbia lumber firms.

The board hearings began this morning less than two weeks before a contract governing 26,500 coast lumber workers expires. Earlier this year the union adopted a firm "no work" policy if a new contract is not signed by the June 16 expiry date.

In its brief, the IWA cited these points in favor of its wage demands:

1. World prices for Canadian lumber have increased and show an upward trend.
2. Unit production costs in the industry have been constantly decreasing and will continue to do so with the introduction of new equipment.
3. Both lumber production and shipments increased in 1958 despite a contrary prediction by the companies.
4. The demand for British Columbia lumber, particularly from United States customers, will increase sharply in the near future because "we are probably on the threshold of an economic boom."
5. The consumer price index for Canada has risen 3.1 per cent since the IWA received its last wage increase in June, 1957, resulting in lower living standards for loggers.
6. Wages paid to IWA members are lower than those paid to members of other unions doing similar work.

False Information Costs Driver $165

Antonius M. van Egmond, 2520 Prior, was fined a total $165 in Saanich police court Tuesday when he pleaded guilty to charges of reporting false information to the police, careless driving and driving without a licence.

"For your information," said Magistrate William Oster, "giving police false information is a serious offence punishable up to 25 years in jail."

Van Egmond told police his car had been stolen, in an effort to avoid suspicion regarding the other offences. He was fined $100, $40 and $25, respectively.

GAGLARDI ASKED THEM ALL—THE ANSWER WAS NO

Godless Czechs 'Deeply Depressing'

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Whenever he met a government minister in Czechoslovakia, B.C. Highways Minister Phil Gaglardi asked him:

"Do you believe in God?"

In every case, Mr. Gaglardi says, the reply was "No."

"How can you deal with men like that?" he thundered. "What confidence can you put in a man who does not believe he will have to answer to his Maker for what he does to his fellow men?"

Mr. Gaglardi is both a minister in the B.C. Social Credit government and a minister of the Pentecostal Church of Canada. He preaches in his own church at Kamloops every Sunday.

During a recent tour of Europe with members of Vancouver Board of Trade, Mr. Gaglardi spent some time in Communist Czechoslovakia and had lengthy conversations with government ministers in the capital city of Prague.

"I was deeply depressed by the general lack of religion," he said. "Atheism is rampant and children are being taught from the cradle that there is no God to answer to—no one higher than the state."

Mr. Gaglardi said he found only one church in Prague—a large Roman Catholic cathedral.

PHIL GAGLARDI they speed, too

"We went through it on a Sunday morning, during a service, and found only a handful of worshippers—mostly elderly folk."

"On yes, the government tells you people can go to church if they wish but, believe me, the churches are only just tolerated. They are there on sufferance."

He said Czech government officials were amazed to learn that he was a preacher as well as a cabinet minister.

"I made no bones about that," he said. "I came out point blank and asked them if they believed in God. And when they said 'No,' I told them how wrong they were."

Turning to material matters, Mr. Gaglardi said there is no speed limit on the main highways of Europe and in Italy he drove as fast as 85 miles an hour.

REAL SLAYER.

"I am not saying there should be no speed limits in Canada," he said, "but I do sincerely believe there would be fewer accidents on our highways if we abolished them—and I am giving the matter some serious study."

"The point is, if you tell a motorist he must not exceed 50 miles an hour, he tends to hit that speed regardless."

Champ Used Head to Retain Fistic Laurels

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Champion Joe Brown, very dissatisfied with Wednesday night's gory victory over challenger Paolo Rosi, said today he would remain in the lightweight division and try to equal at least, the late Benny Leonard's record of eight title defenses.

JOE BROWN
... still the champ

"I won't try to step up to the welterweight division," said the slender, 33-year-old champion, who weighed only 132 pounds while scoring a ninth-round technical knockout victory over a bloody Rosi.

That was Brown's seventh defense in his 19th professional bout, and it certainly wasn't one of his best performances.

Rosi, a native of Italy who now lives in New York, had 10 stitches taken in his right brow at Sibley Hospital this morning and patched up on three other minor cuts about his eyes. He claimed he was the victim of Brown's alleged butts and not his fists.

HE WAS CLOSE

"I had the title in my hands," declared the baldish, 31-year-old challenger, "until I got his head in my face in the eighth round."

At the end of the eighth session, Rosi—who weighed 134 pounds to Brown's 132—was ahead on the score sheets of nine sportswriters at ringside. Four writers had Brown ahead and two figured the bout even.

But on the official score sheets, the opinion was evenly divided. Referee Charlie Reynolds favored Rosi on a five-points-must basis, 76-71. Judge Norvel Lee gave him 75 points and Judge Harvey Volkman favored Brown, 77-75.

Brown insisted today he had fought a retreating fight in nearly every round, because, "I had to keep out of the way of Rosi's bald, billygat head. Otherwise my face would have been a bloody mess from his head—as his face was from my fists."

FORCED ACTION

Rosi forced the action in every session, marching after the elusive champion with wild hooks that missed almost as often as they landed. In the third round, the sharp-featured, muscular challenger almost fell to the canvas when he missed with a terrific left hook.

The 4,500 fans in the arena were greatly disappointed when Drs. Clark Halstead and Jack Kneipp told the referee to notify Rosi that he could not continue because of the profusely bleeding wound—an inch and a half long and a quarter-inch wide—at the outside corner of his right brow.

Rosi, who had gone into the fight unbeaten in his last nine bouts, is a "quick bleeder" who had been stopped on cuts by Baby Vasquez, Dec. 28, 1956—Paolo's last previous defeat—and by Orlando Zulueta in 1954.

'Best in May' Honor Shared

CINCINNATI (AP)—The hitting of Hank Aaron of Milwaukee Braves and the pitching of Harvey Haddix of Pittsburgh Pirates gave them a tie for the National League's first "player of the month" award for 1959. The award covers play during May.

Each received 17 votes from the 40-man committee of baseball writers and broadcasters who cover league games daily.

Only two other players figured in the voting. Elroy Face, the Pirates' relief pitching star, received four votes and two went to Johnny Logan, shortstop for the Braves.

Nothing Personal, Y' Know

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—It's not that House Speaker H. G. Andrews has anything personal against Harvey Haddix, the now-famed pitcher with Pittsburgh Pirates.

But Andrews, 82, has been in and out of the Pennsylvania legislature since 1932. And in that period he's had to listen to, talk on and vote on thousands of resolutions best described as harmless.

Wednesday, with bipartisan support, there came to the floor of the House a resolution to commend Haddix for his remarkable feat of pitting 12 perfect innings against Milwaukee Braves last week.

Andrews rose.

"Gentlemen," he said, "some time or other the House leadership must place some bounds on the range of resolutions that are presented. This type of resolution is absolutely in derogation of the dignity of the House."

Nothing else was said of the resolution. If some one wants to press for a vote on it, the matter must be referred to the rules committee for study.

DOW TALKS GOLF... NO. 20

Fade Aids Accuracy

This is the 20th of an instructional golf series, written for U.S.A. Service and The Daily Times by Dow Finsterwald, U.S. Professional Golfers' Association champion who finished in the money in 22 consecutive tournaments. The series is designed to help the average golfer improve his game.

By DOW FINSTERWALD

Ben Hogan became great when he developed the fade to cure the hook.

Fading the ball, imparting a slight left-to-right trajectory, I have been able to place the Dunlop which I play in position from where I may reach the green with greater regularity.

The fade is started deliberately, to the left, and comes back on the target. It is a controlled shot which has minimum roll and thus places emphasis on accuracy.

It is not to be confused with the slice which is usually an uncontrolled, sharply-breaking left-to-right curve that runs wildly after landing.

When you wish to get in position to play a fade the ball is approximately two inches more forward off the stance than it would be for the normal straight shot with the same club. The left hip should point about 25 degrees to the left of the objective.

Start the clubhead away from the ball directly on the line of the target. It will, of course, have to eventually come inside the line as do all swings.

FADE SLICE

The right hand works under the club shaft through the hitting area as compared to the hand action in the normal swing in which it rolls over as the clubhead approaches impact with the ball.

NEXT: The downhill lie.

FRED STOPPED THIS ONE, BUT...

Agile Fred Fulla did some quick work with elbow to deflect this shot by Victoria's Al Gill (7), but Shamrock veteran was back later to pump two shots behind Nanaimo goalie. Other Rocks fooled Fred often enough to give Irish thrilling 13-12 Inter-City Lacrosse League decision over Labatts. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

NEW YORK (UPI)—Despite Sugar Ray Robinson's plea that Carmen Basilio "come to his senses," it appeared virtually certain today that the world of boxing soon will have two "middle-weight champions" for the first time in 18 years.

"I still hope that Basilio will come to his senses and negotiate in good faith for a bout with me," said Robinson Wednesday.

But Basilio still shows no interest in the share of the title still held by Robinson—recognition as champion by New York State. Promoter Norman Rothchild has announced that Basilio instead will meet Gene Fullmer for the National Boxing Association version of the title some time during the first two weeks in August.

TAKE YOUR PICK

Rothchild, who will promote the Basilio-Fullmer bout in conjunction with a local promoter in the city where it's held, said Los Angeles, San Francisco, Salt Lake City, Denver, Chicago and Ogden, Utah, were under consideration as possible sites.

All six cities are in areas ruled by the NBA, which has stripped Robinson of title recognition for failure to defend against Basilio within the stipulated time. The NBA has announced it will recognize the Basilio-Fullmer winner as champion.

That means that, come August, there will be two champs. The last time that happened in the middleweight class was in 1941 when Tony Zale was recognized by the NBA and Billy Soose by New York State.

LOOK ELSEWHERE

Robinson acknowledged that Basilio's plans to meet Fullmer would mean "I shall reluctantly be forced to seek competition elsewhere." It was expected that Robinson would turn to European champion Gustav (Bubi) Scholz of Germany as a possible rival.

Fullmer said that if he beats Basilio he will defend the title against "the top challenger" within 90 days. Basilio had issued the same assurance a day earlier, which is in line with the NBA directive granting title recognition to the bout.

Fullmer disclosed that Basilio will receive the larger percentage of the purse for their fight because he "is really the key figure and could have held out for a match with Robinson." Rothchild said in Syracuse, N.Y., exact terms will be announced after he has "tied up a few loose ends."

CALGARY (CP)—A proposed light-heavyweight fight in Calgary between Tony Anthony and Harold Cotton has fallen through, promoter Nick Zubray said this week.

Irish Take Fancy To 'Unlucky 13'

Rocks' Whirlwind Windup Provides Fifth Straight Win

Shamrocks 13, Nanaimo 12
By DOUG PEDEEN

Whoever wants to claim that 13 is an unlucky number will get an argument from Victoria Shamrocks today.

And if someone should care to suggest to Nanaimo Labatts that seven packs a lucky label, he won't get to first base.

Both numbers received more than passing attention at Memorial Arena Wednesday night as the Rocks remembered what should have been familiar Inter-City Lacrosse League lines just in time to give 2,420 paying customers a mild case of hysteria.

Thirteen was the favorite figure for the Irish fans. Long Jim McNeill, wearing No. 13, pumped home the 13th Shamrock goal in the 13th minute of the thrill-tossed final quarter. That was the tally that gave the Rocks a 13-12 victory over Labatts and a share of first place.

Seven came in for less favorable attention from Nanaimo officials, who claimed it was that many seconds that the arena clock—which has figured in former Nanaimo-Victoria boxla hassles—continued to tick off time after referee Wally Henderson had sounded his whistle in the final minute.

Henderson called the Rocks for stalling and ordered a face-off, from which the Irish, again got possession of the ball. By the time Labatts snagged the rubber in the dying stages, it was too late, but a few extra seconds could have made a big difference the way the battle was going in the fourth period.

Timer Was a Mite Late That Time

There was little doubt that the clock's second hand did fudge a bit after the whistle, and Nanaimo officials were undecided after the game whether or not to lodge an official protest.

However, nobody could take anything away from the Irish, who squeezed out their fifth straight victory with a tremendous, come-from-behind dash down the homestretch.

For most of the hard-checking tussle, it appeared that the Rocks, who had shaken off sizeable deficits to win their previous three outings, had their script scrambled. Trailing, 3-2, at the end of the first quarter, they fashioned a 6-3 lead in the second.

They stepped into high gear after Arnie Dugan had made it 12-10 for Labatts with five minutes left. But McKee alighted past former Shamrock Jack Howes to make it 12-11. They determined Stew Smith, whose flat-footed trot makes him appear an unlikely scoring threat but who has notched 10 goals in six games, evened the count with his second tally of the period.

That set the stage for McNeill and fleet Tom Collett, who had set up a goal by McNeill earlier in the quarter. Collett carried the ball into the right corner and threaded a pass to McNeill, cutting across the goal from the left. Lanky Jim beat goalie Fred Fulla cleanly on the picture play and the Rocks controlled the ball until the final few seconds.

Rookie Jack Showers, firing two of the game's most spectacular goals, and Alan Gill also, picked up two tallies for the Irish. Other Victoria goals came from the sticks of Ed Kowalyk, Bert Bertoia, Derry Davies and Whitey Severson.

Ashbee was the top sniper for Labatts with four goals. Skip MacKay connected twice and single Nanaimo goals were collected by Dugan, John Lumley, Dave Patterson, Howes and Spud Morelli, who hit the 300th goal of his Inter-City League career.

Victoria goalie Gordie Johnston stopped 26 shots while Fulla was blocking 26 of 39 Shamrock drives.

British Women Lead While Canadians Rest

ST. ANDREW'S Scotland (UPI)—Britain led New Zealand 2-0 after the morning fourfours in the third day of play in the Commonwealth women's golf tournament on the Royal and Ancient course today.

In the second of today's contests, South Africa led Australia 1-0 with one game halved.

Canadian women, unbeaten in their two contests so far, rested today and meet Britain tomorrow.

British-New Zealand scores (British names first): Mrs. Frances Smith and Miss Margaret Robertson defeated Miss Nikki Campbell and Miss Aileen Nash, 4 and 2. Mrs. Marley Spearman and Miss Bridget Jackson defeated Miss Susan Orr and Miss Jean Mangon, 3 and 1. South Africa-Australia scores (South African names first):

The horse, British Agent, owned by Max Bell, of Calgary, and G. R. Gardiner, of Toronto, ran the fastest six furlongs of the Ontario season when he was timed in 1:10.45, beating by three lengths Camden Hills and Le Grands Rouge, the choice.

Bench Packing Power

NEW YORK (AP)—If guys like Gene Freese or Smokey Burgess are available as pinch-hitters, it's time for the opposing pitcher to start worrying.

Freese, Philadelphia Phillies' secret weapon, has slammed five pinch-hit homers this season to move to within one of the major league record set by Johnny Frederick of Brooklyn, in 1932. Freese also has had a double and a single and driven in 13 runs in 17 times at bat as a pinch-batter for a .412 average.

Freese's first pinch-hit home run was a grand slam off Miguel Cuellar, of Cincinnati, on April 18, and helped the Phils win 14-9.

GREAT AVERAGE
Burgess has collected six hits, including three doubles and two homers, in seven pinch-hit tries for a .857 mark. Smokey's overall mark for Pittsburgh is .370.

Rookie John Romano, of Chicago White Sox, has four hits in as many attempts as a substitute batter. Johnny Groth, of Detroit, has three-for-four, including a homer, Al Pilarcik, of Baltimore, has five-for-seven and a .714 pinch-hitting average. Gene Woodling has four safeties in five tries.

Dave Philley, of Philadelphia, who holds the big league record of nine consecutive pinch hits, has had four-for-11 and a .364 average. Bob Bowman, of the Phillies, has turned in the same pinch hitting performance.

VERNON GOING GREAT

Mickey Vernon has done well as a pinch-hitter for Milwaukee, with seven hits in 19 tries for .368. The Los Angeles Dodgers have gotten effective pinch hitting from Duke Snider (5 for 11) and Ron Fairly (3 for 7). George Crowe of St. Louis has six hits in 14 efforts for a .429 percentage.

The records include only Monday's games.

OUTDOOR REPORT

BY

Doug Peden

When a flock of Victoria trigger experts start snapping cartridges in the 75th annual provincial full-bore rifle meeting at Vancouver's Blair Range Saturday, a few of them could be taking the first steps on the trail that leads to Bisley.

They may have more incentive than usual this time since it's anybody's guess just how many more Canadian contingents will head toward England and the Mecca of British Empire rifle men after next summer.

Doubt surrounding the future of the annual shooting safaris across the pond has been painted by the adoption of the 7.62 mm FN as Canada's service rifle.

For one thing, members of active and reserve service units have always received free issue of .303-calibre No. 4 rifles and ammunition for target shooting, while civilians have been able to purchase the service rifles at the B.C. Rifle Association cost of $40.82.

It is difficult to imagine the government making the gas-operated FN—virtually high-velocity sub-machine guns—available to civilians and non-active members of armed forces.

And even service jobs could be expected to have some troubles looking after the new shooting iron since it takes a fair amount of patience and know-how to properly clean and adjust the 7.62. To top it off, the FN sights were never intended for pin-point accuracy and its single, eight-pound trigger pull is hardly the thing for good target work.

The old No. 4 has a double pull and the second one, the one that does the business, is only five pounds.

How Does a Fella Get to Bisley?

However, rifle men won't be worrying about the future fate of their outdated .303 muskets while they are banging away for prizes and places on the province's Ottawa team during the week-long BCRA shoot, so let's take a look at just what it takes to qualify for a Bisley berth.

First of all, a fella or a gal must belong to the BCRA, membership in which is primarily made up of personnel from active and reserve units. Civilian membership is not large although association fees and entry fees at various prize shoots are the same for everyone.

The most expensive part of shooting is ammunition. Civvy-street snipers have to buy their own, but young marksmen can have all the advantages of inexpensive full-bore shooting by joining a local cadet unit. The traditional outdoor target-shooting system in Canada will probably last only as long as present stocks of .303 ammunition hold out.

Regardless of how they acquire their brass, shooters compete for prize monies and trophies in various matches and at the Blair Range shoot they also take aim on expenses-paid trips to the annual Dominion of Canada Rifle Association matches at Ottawa's Connaught Range. B.C. sends a 24-member team, plus six extras, if the latter post scores high enough to warrant the trip.

From the Ottawa matches, Canada's 18 entrants for the following summer's Bisley trigger contest are selected. Regardless of his score, a civilian is not eligible for the Bisley team, but may enter and compete in the Empire matches at his own expense.

The leading scorer in the provincial shoot wins the Lieutenant-Governor's Medal; the top prize at Ottawa is the Governor-General's Medal and the winner of Bisley's main event carries home rifle shooting's prestige piece—the Queen's prize.

Salmon fishing appears to be a spotty proposition these days and although a fair number of fish are being pulled out at Saanich Inlet, many regulars at other lower-island areas are staying on shore, polishing tackle and boats, until activity picks up.

Trout fishing has been a pleasing pastime in many of the larger streams and lakes. Cowichan Lake and the top stretches of the Cowichan River may be just about the best bets for big trout, but don't forget about near-by Elk Lake, which holds trout up to four pounds and should be worth visiting for another couple of weeks.

Saskatchewan has a happy problem. It is planning an increase of bag limits for deer hunters because of the province's growing deer population.

A special season is planned for the Moosomin area, where deer are damaging farm crops and in eastern Saskatchewan it is expected the limit will be raised from two to three animals of either sex. In some sections the limit is one, but the province's natural resources department says this will probably be boosted to two in northern areas.

Three More Join Eskimos' Family

EDMONTON (CP)—Edmonton Eskimos announced the signing of holdover tackles Ed Gray, Tom Emerson and J. T. Frankenberg, bringing to 27 the number of imports to report to the Western Interprovincial Football Union club's training camp next month.

All three were United States National Football League draft choices after their college campaigns.

Lake Hill Little League is calling "time out" Sunday in order to squeeze some celebrations into their minor baseball picture.

An interesting afternoon of entertainment will feature official dedication of the Lake Hill League's new park on Braefoot Road.

Starting with an all-star contest at 1 p.m., Sunday's program also includes a managers' game, and a regular league fixture between Jaycees and Gordon's at 3:45. Official dedication of the park will take place at 3:15.

Municipal dignitaries, the Saanich May Queen and the S. J. Willis Junior High School band will also take part in the ceremonies.

In games played Wednesday, Tuglets climbed a full game ahead of second-place Autumns in the American Little League on the combined efforts of Doug Hill and Bob Murphy. Tuglets defeated Kinmen 10-2, rallying for six of their runs in the fifth inning.

Toronto Set to Send Grey Cup Invitations

TORONTO (CP)—The 1959 Grey Cup football classic will be played on the wind-swept turf of Exhibition Stadium.

Hiram McCallum, general manager of the Canadian National Exhibition, said Wednesday night agreement has been reached with football commissioner Sidney Halpern on a rental of $20,000.

Date of this year's game is Nov. 22.

STOCK CARS MAKING CHANGE

One Ace Is All That Varley Wants

Diminutive, diminutive Varley wants to stand pat with a winning hand.

You might have to be a mechanic to understand it all, but "locked rear ends" will be back in style at Western Speedway this Saturday night.

Vancouver Island's stock cars are reverting to a mechanical specification that was observed last year, but with one notable exception:

Varley, driver of what seems to be the hottest bit of iron around, is not making the change. That means the car that has completely dominated auto racing in the past two weeks will continue to roll with an unlocked rear end Saturday.

"Oh, I suppose we'll get around to making the change eventually," Varley reported Wednesday, "but we won't lock it up this week. I'd like to see how the car stands up with the rear when they have locked rear ends."

Owned and built by Victoria's Grant King, the Varley car is the talk of the grease-alley set. In fact, the machine has been involved in one controversy after another.

The latest rhubarb concerning the "Jimmy" came to light this week when Nanaimo's racing association announced that the car will not be allowed to race at the up-island track.

Nanaimo officials applied a ruling that says all cars must appear "stock." And King's "Kersey Special" just "doesn't look right" to up-island racers, despite the fact that the Vancouver Island Track Racing Association (which governs racing at Western-Speedway) has provided its stamp of approval.

But on the subject of locked rear ends, both bodies agree. VITRA president Darryl Foster said the "experiment didn't turn out as we hoped it would."

The change, he added, was being made in the interests of safety—there are a large number of rookie drivers racing regularly this season—and to provide faster racing for the benefit of fans.

One of the greatest advantages of locked rear ends is the fact cars are more versatile on the turns. The drivers enjoy greater control over their machines and cars can display more power coming out of the turns.

That last factor is one which Varley's rivals hope will equalize the difference between their machines and the Kersey Special. Last weekend, for example, several drivers could match Varley on the turns. But they were no match for Varley's car on the straightaways.

Most mechanics who inhabit Western-Speedway each Saturday night feel drivers such as Dave Cooper, Al Smith and Bob Clark of Nanaimo will be able to beat Varley now that locked rear ends are back.

And Dick, who isn't overly concerned about the Nanaimo ban, is accepting his rivals' challenge by standing pat.

Saturday's program starts at 7:30.

Those 'Choke-Up' Guys Tossing Gags at Rivals

Senators Hand Vanishing Indians Fifth Consecutive Setback, 4-0

By The Associated Press

It seems like ages ago, but remember when the word was that Milwaukee's Braves were choke-up guys? Whether that was a bum rap or not, they're a cool crew of two-time champions now, chopping down anyone who threatens their shot at a third straight National League pennant.

It was mid-May when the Braves zeroed in, running off six in a row for a 4½-game bulge. Then they slowed to a walk and San Francisco started to close in.

Just last Monday, the Giants steamed into Milwaukee with a 7-2 record and walloped the Braves 11-2, whittling their edge to 1½ games.

That did it. The Braves tightened up and blanked the

Arch Seeking Willing Rival

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Arrangements were reported virtually completed Wednesday for world light-heavy-weight champion Archie Moore to fight here next September. No date has been set.

The word came from Doc Kearns, Moore's manager, and Russell Farnsworth, Kansas City advertising agency official who heads a Kansas City syndicate backing the fight, in a telephone call from Washington.

"I've been negotiating with Farnsworth for the last three weeks," Kearns told the Kansas City Star from Washington. "We are practically set on all the details as far as Moore is concerned. The next step will be to select an opponent mutually agreeable."

Moore will meet Canadian champion Yvon Durelle in a title bout July 15 at Montreal.

IT'S JUST TO REMIND HARRY OF HEARTBREAKER

CINCINNATI (AP)—The National League has decided to give pitcher Harvey Haddix a silver tray and a dozen sterling goblets for his almost-perfect game.

Haddix rewrote the record books May 26 when he pitched 12 consecutive perfect innings for Pittsburgh Pirates against Milwaukee. The Braves finally got one hit and put across a run in the 13th inning to win, 1-0.

PARK BEATS DEADLINE BY TWO YEARS

Fuller's Lake Park, at Chemainus, built as a community effort, will be opened to the public about June 21, two years ahead of schedule.

The seven-acre tract will offer swimming facilities, 12 picnic tables, parking for 200 cars, and brick barbecue (left). Overnight campsites and a trailer park are planned for next year.

Work was done by a local committee headed by Harry Ewart, and including representatives of service clubs, business, industry, and labor. Heavy equipment was loaned, thousands of hours of work donated, and Chemainus Kinsmen now are completing picnic tables.

QUADRA ISLAND PARTY PLANNED AT NEW PARK

CAMPBELL RIVER—Residents of Quadra Island, near Campbell River, plan a day of festivity June 20 when Rebecca Spit Park will be dedicated there by Recreational and Conservation Minister E. C. Westwood.

Ceremonies at 2 p.m. will be followed by a program of land and water sports and a basket picnic lunch. Many residents of Campbell River and Courtenay districts are expected to attend. Quadra Island Ratepayers' Association has also invited units of the air force and the navy to participate. The park eventually will be used as a marina.

DRINKING CHARGE QUASHED

Judge Frees Driver From Jail Sentence

DUNCAN—Joseph Moon of Shawnigan Lake was freed by County Court Judge L. Arnold Hanna Wednesday after a lower court had convicted him of impaired driving.

"I can't convict a man on suggestions," the judge stated, overruling the earlier 30-day sentence. "It is up to the Crown to prove how much the man had to drink preceding the accident."

Moon had previously been sentenced by police court Magistrate A. C. Sutton after Moon's car had struck the rear of a stopped car operated by Mrs. Jack Hindmarch, Price Place, on March 28.

Judge Hanna, elaborating on his remark, said that Crown prosecutor Thomas Lines had suggested that Moon had "more to drink than he tells us."

"There is evidence he spent some time in the city and that he had three or four glasses and that his attention was distracted by a dog in the car as he said."

"There is doubt in my mind, raised by the defence, as to whether he was impaired," said Judge Hanna.

Dr. Walter Duncan, a specialist called by defence counsel Jack Davis, said that the "unsteadiness, slurring of speech and lack of comprehension" by Moon after the accident could have been produced by post traumatic effects, a state of shock which the police took to be drunkenness.

City Clamps Control On Exhibition Board

Power of Veto After Paying $80,000 Debt

NANAIMO—City council this week tightened its control of Vancouver Island Exhibition Board in return for agreeing to pay debts of $80,000 incurred by the board last year.

The following steps have been taken:

The board has surrendered its park lease to the city.

Board members have agreed to three council members joining the board, and have approved a bylaw whereby the city can veto any decision made by the board.

"LIKE OR LUMP IT"

City solicitor E. D. Stridgitham said the board had little choice regarding the council program, and had either to "like it or lump it."

Majority of board members accepted the city authority favorably, saying "the council members will be here pitching with us."

Frank Wilfert, Jr., chairman, said the city will claim 25 per cent of all surplus profits made by the association each year, and that one of the new board's responsibilities is to make Exhibition Park a paying proposition.

Eric Stafford, who had resigned as fair manager because of overwork, withdrew his resignation when told an assistant had been engaged for him.

Boy's Alert Saves Home From Arson

NANAIMO—A deliberate arson attempt failed here Wednesday, as seven-year-old Douglas Clarke alerted neighbors that six "set" fires were burning in his Doric Avenue home.

Neighbors called firemen and they doused the fires, believed lit by three boys under 10 years of age.

Small blazes were found in almost every room of the house, burning on the mantlepiece above the living room fireplace, on the TV set, in a bedroom, on the kitchen table and on other articles in the house.

Douglas' mother, Mrs. J. I. Clarke, was out at the time and her son had just returned from school.

Nanaimo RCMP were called in to investigate.

NAVY IN PIER MIXUP

Trouble in Dock On Royal Dry-Run

NANAIMO (CP)—HMCS Assiniboine ran into a mixup when she steamed to a wharf here Wednesday during a rehearsal for the royal tour.

Twelve seamen puffed and grunted as they heaved a ramp from a trailer, ready for the destroyer to dock at Pier Two.

The Assiniboine sailed into the harbor, swung hard right and disappeared behind CPR ferry buildings.

"Load up!" said an officer, and the seamen bundled the ramp back onto the trailer and made a dash to Pier One.

Officers at the pier said they had orders the destroyer would dock there. The ship's officer said Pier One was their pier.

The correct spot was marked with a dab of white paint before the rehearsal was declared over.

Extension of Victoria's tourist season to the end of October will be discussed at a dinner meeting of the Chamber of Commerce tourist trade group in the James Bay Hotel next Thursday at 6:15 p.m.

NORTH COWICHAN—Building permits issued by the Municipality of North Cowichan last month totaled $106,749, as compared with $110,800 in May of last year.

Total value of building permits issued by the municipality in the first five months of this year is $343,367.

Permits issued by the municipality last month included eight for new residential dwellings to a total value of $36,500, and 18 for repairs to residential dwellings totalling $29,749. A single permit for $20,000 was issued for construction of the Cowichan Exhibition administrative building on Clement Street.

An official welcome from the municipality was extended to the delegates by village commission chairman J. Craig Reid, and guest speaker during the dinner at the Qualicum Beach Inn was Rev. R. 'Help Yourself Therapy' Works Wonders for Nurses Helping patients to help themselves is part of the new technique of nursing applied by the Victorian Order of Nurses—better known as the VON.

"This technique is working wonders among elderly men and women who would otherwise be bedridden," said Christine Livingston, director-in-chief of the VON in Ottawa, who is now visiting Victoria.

"For instance an infirm person who can be taught to take a bath unaided is not just being clean, but is applying a valuable therapy."

"The very act of squeezing a sponge or wielding a brush exercises the limbs—and the feeling of independence that comes with self-help is a tremendous morale booster."

A cheerful efficient administrator, Miss Livingston is here to attend the annual meeting of the VON of British Columbia which is being held at Victoria Art Gallery today with Mrs. Dudley Markham, provincial president, in the chair.

AFRAID TO CALL

In their neat blue uniforms, VON nurses call at private homes in small cars provided by the order. Today there are 642 of them working in 120 towns and cities from Victoria to St. John's Newfoundland.

CHRISTINE LIVINGSTON, heads Victorian Order.

"The service is available to 43 per cent of Canada's 17,000,000 population," Miss Livingston said. "Our main concern now is to make the service better known to the people."

"Many pensioners are afraid of calling a VON nurse because they think they cannot afford it. Actually our charges are based on what the patient can afford, and that is a private matter worked out between the patient and the nurse."

The VON works in close cooperation with doctors and hospitals. A doctor can refer a patient to the VON or this may be done by a hospital or welfare agency.

"VON nurses have to learn the new technique of helping patients to help themselves," Miss Livingston said. "It is a very different technique from the old bedside nursing and calls for a considerable knowledge of therapy."

She recalled that the VON was founded in Canada in 1897 by Lady Aberdeen, wife of the then Governor-General of Canada.

Lady Aberdeen saw how the great influx of settlers at that time had created the need for more home nursing, particularly in childbirth. In too many cases a father walked miles for nursing aid, and the baby died in the meantime.

Miss Livingston estimates that more than half of VON's patients are mothers and babies.

"Our organization is needed more than ever as a supplement to hospital care, particularly in Victoria where there is a large percentage of elderly folk."

$68,859 IN CONTRACTS AWARDED BY OTTAWA

Four contracts totalling $68,859 have been awarded in Victoria by the Department of Defence Production, it was announced today.

Largest of these, for coal valued at $20,359, went to Kirk Coal of Esquimalt.

Victoria Machinery Depot received a $20,000 contract for ship repairs, and William Fanthorpe a $10,800 contract for disposal of refuse.

In addition, Sir Charles Wright, 579 Newport, now engaged in technical work with the Pacific Naval Laboratory, was awarded a $17,500 contract for his services during the year ending March 31, 1960.

Pay the Piper Drive To Serenade Tourists

It is expected tourists arriving here by steamer from Port Angeles and Vancouver will again be greeted by the skirl of the pipes this summer.

The piper, Lona Donaldson, may also be heard at one or two conventions.

Victoria Chamber of Commerce is now canvassing its members for contributions to the cost of paying the piper—and the response is encouraging.

"We have received close to $50 in donations so far," a spokesman said, "but more money is still needed."

'Coronary Club' Easy to Join

MONTREAL (C.P.)—The National Heart Foundation says membership in the not-so-select "Coronary Club" is guaranteed for persons who will follow 11 simple rules.

The foundation, which held its annual meeting here Wednesday, issued a tongue-in-cheek application form for membership in the club.

The rules are:

1. Your job comes first. Personal considerations are secondary.
2. Go to the office evenings, Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.
3. Take the brief case home on the evenings when you do not go to the office. This provides an opportunity to review completely all the troubles and worries of the day.
4. Never say "no" to a request—always say "yes."
5. Accept all invitations to meetings, banquets and committees.

6. Do not eat a restful relaxing meal—always plan a conference for the meal hour.

7. Fishing and hunting are a waste of time and money. You never bring back enough fish or game to justify the expense.

8. It is a poor policy to take all the vacation time which is provided to you.

9. Golf, bowling, billiards, pool, cards and gardening are a waste of time.

10. Never delegate responsibility to others. Carry the load at all times.

11. If your work calls for travelling, work all day and drive all night to make your appointment for the next morning.

Follow these rules faithfully and you'll soon be a solid member of the Coronary Club, the foundation says.

B.C. AID HALF WHAT'S NEEDED

VON Needs Double Grant

Provincial government grant to the Victorian Order of Nurses for British Columbia does not begin to cover cost of visits made in a year to chronically ill-pensioners.

This was pointed out by retiring president, Mrs. S. D. Markham, in her report at this morning's session of the provincial annual meeting held in the Greater Victoria Art Gallery.

Sixty nurses in the nine branches of the VON in British Columbia made 136,382 visits during 1958.

Visits to chronically ill pensioners of either provincial or federal governments totalled 60,307.

Each visit costs approximately $2.

Provincial government grant, at the moment, stands at $30,000.

"The very large discrepancy is being financed by voluntary funds, raised by Community Chest and other campaigns," Mrs. Markham said.

"VON for British Columbia has applied for a grant of $67,500 for 1959," she said, "but, as yet, our allotment has not been announced."

DRIVER WARNED

'Survival of the Fittest'

A traffic violator was told in city police court Tuesday his kind of driving would reduce motoring to "survival of the fittest" if carried on by others.

Bernard P. Gibbons, North Vancouver, was fined $30 and restricted to business driving only for one month when he pleaded guilty to careless driving.

Police followed his car at 35-40 miles an hour from Johnson to Belleville on Douglas, seeing the car go through five red lights and swerve to the wrong side of the road early Tuesday.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court Wednesday:

Hendry J. Deigneault, 2662 Blanshard, $35 for careless driving.

Edward J. Stefanek, 1127 Catherine, $25 for violation of driver's licence restriction and $25 for speeding over 30.

Gibbons said although he had been drinking he was tired from driving all day.

"How much did you have to drink?" he was asked.

"I think probably I had two or three martinis, no more than that," Gibbons said.

"That was probably two or three too many," Magistrate William Ostler observed.

"If everyone drove like you, the use of the public streets would be a matter of the survival of the fittest," the magistrate said.

THREE CARS, DREAM TRIP BINGO PRIZES

Three, 1959 cars, a 14-foot boat, $150 groceries and a "dream" expense-paid vacation to any city in North America are among the prizes offered at Victoria Kinsmen's giant bingo scheduled for Memorial Arena June 29.

Some 7,500 participants are expected at the game, the club's 15th of mammoth size.

They will also be tempted by two portable television sets, porch sun set with umbrella, table and chairs, 50 hams, wrist watches, three-piece luggage sets, camping outfit for four persons, cedar chest and the usual Kinsmen "surprise" features.

Imported bamboo contour chairs will be the consolation prizes.

Holders of tickets bought between 10 a.m. Thursday and 5 p.m. June 20 will be eligible for the vacation prize, which includes $20 a day spending money.

Oslo, capital of Norway, was long known as Christiania and began as a settlement in 1047.

ALBERTA PREMIER IN FIFTH ELECTION BID

'Bible Teaching Beats Politics'

EDMONTON (CP) — Premier Ernest Charles Manning, a veteran politician at 51, on June 18 will lead Alberta's Social Credit party for the fifth time in a provincial general election.

The party has been in power since 1935 when, at 26, Mr. Manning became the Commonwealth's youngest cabinet minister. He became premier in 1943 following the death of Hon. William Aberhart and has held office ever since, a record for continuous service unmatched by present Canadian premiers.

Despite his success, the premier, evangelist and farmer does not like election campaigning. "It produces too much criticism and never gets to the point of issues."

Mr. Manning, who says he prefers teaching the Bible to politics, saw his party's representation in the legislature reduced to 37 from 52 seats in the 1955 general election.

RADIO PREACHER

Besides being premier, he holds two other cabinet posts — minister of mines and minerals and attorney-general. A Fundamental Baptist, he conducts a weekly evangelical radio program and finds time to relax on his 312-acre farm on the outskirts of Edmonton where he grows grain and raises registered cattle.

Radio has played an important part in Mr. Manning's career.

He was 18 when a radio was first brought into his farm home at Carnduff, Sask. He heard a religious broadcast by Mr. Aberhart of the Calgary Prophetic Bible Institute and was so impressed he went to Calgary to become a student of the institute.

Mr. Manning became the first graduate of the institute and Mr. Aberhart's right-hand man. When Mr. Aberhart became the first Social Credit premier in 1935, Mr. Manning became his first cabinet minister with the portfolios of provincial secretary and trade and commerce.

When Mr. Aberhart died, Mr. Manning at 34 became the Commonwealth's youngest premier.

ABERHART DISCIPLE

He continued to plump for monetary reform under Social Credit and also took over Mr. Aberhart's weekly religious broadcasts.

The premier believes Christianity should go hand-in-hand with political life. When he was given his cabinet post in 1935 he said:

"I wasn't looking for it at all. I had no interest in this from the point of view of a job, although probably no one will believe that. I'd just as soon be busy with my Bible work."

As minister of mines and minerals he has guided the multi-million-dollar development of this oil-rich province. Income from oil development has exceeded $800,000,000 in the last 12 years, helping to give the province a debt-free status and an accumulated surplus of more than $250,000,000.

He married the former Muriel Aileen Preston who played the organ at Mr. Aberhart's Bible Institute. Now she plays for her husband every Sunday during his broadcasts. They have two children.

FEW TAKERS FOR STUDENT AID

Marks Not Rising to Bait

Victoria College students aren't rushing to take advantage of the provincial government's scholarship grants.

The government offer, first of its kind in Canada, was to pay half of tuition fees for first-class students and a third of the fees of the top 2,000 second-class students.

For the first-class students, this would amount to a saving of over $160; for the second-classers that qualify, a saving of about $112.

With savings like these, it was expected the numbers of first-class students would rise sharply — but such was not the case.

A quick comparison of figures for this year and last indicates that, despite increased enrolment, only first-year Arts and Science students have picked off more first-class marks than usual this year.

But in second-year Arts and Science and first and second-year Education, first-class marks are the same or fewer this year than in either of the two preceding years.

In second-year Education in 1957, for example, there were nine first classes; in 1958, 12; but this year there are five.

First-year Education has held fairly steady. In 1957 there were four first-class students; in 1958, five, and this year, four again.

In second-year Arts and Science, there were 18 first-class marks in 1957, 16 in 1958 and this year there are 10.

First-year Arts and Science reversed the trend, however, rising slightly. There were 22 first-class students in 1957, 18 in 1958 and 24 this year.

Loan Fund Go-Ahead By Cabinet

A million dollar student-aid loan fund to assist Victoria College and University of British Columbia students was given the go-ahead Wednesday by a cabinet order-in-council.

The loan fund was authorized at the last session of the legislature. The new order gives the university the right to borrow up to $1,000,000 as required, with full provincial government guarantees.

The borrowings shall be at rates of interest to be negotiated at the time required. The bank authorized in the order is the Bank of Montreal.

Under the student aid loan plan funds can be advanced to worthy students where assistance is required with tuition fees.

Mother Shoots Son, Self

(Compiled from CP)
NELSON—A 27-year-old mother, despairing over two unsuccessful marriages, shot her sleeping son to death and then debated alone for two hours before killing herself.

Police placed that reconstruction Wednesday night on what they described as the murder-suicide of Mrs. Pauline Ashleigh, 27, and her son, Patrick, 7.

Mrs. Ashleigh and her son were found dead Wednesday in an apartment hotel in downtown Nelson. Police said Mrs. Ashleigh fired two shots at point-blank range into the head of her son while he slept, later killing herself beside the bed with the same .22-calibre rifle.

The twice-married Mrs. Ashleigh moved to the suite early in April after parting from her husband in Vancouver. Her son was Patrick Walsh, a child of her first marriage.

The woman's mother, Mrs. John Simon of Nelson, said her daughter's second marriage nine months ago was one of frequent discord and the couple parted two months ago. "Pauline was sick and hurt," she told reporters.

Twice before she tried to kill herself. "She rented a car, took her son with her and tried to kill herself with the car fumes."

3 YEARS FOR RAPE

VANCOUVER — Roy Alexander McDonald, 43, was sentenced here to three years in prison for raping a 17-year-old girl last March 24. A jury recommended mercy and Mr. Justice H. W. McInnes followed the recommendation although he said McDonald was obviously a man of violence.

LAWYER DISBARRED

VANCOUVER — D. M. Teppoorten, 33-year-old lawyer from suburban Burnaby, has been disbarred for life by the British Columbia Law Society.

The decision, taken in a society caucus last Friday and disclosed Wednesday, accused Mr. Teppoorten of "professional misconduct."

He was solicitor for a real estate firm, now charged with some of its officers of defrauding investors. His records were seized by the law society last year following an investigation of the company.

LOGGER KILLED

REVELSTOKE — Julius Jacob, 58-year-old logger from Golden, B.C., was killed here when struck by a falling tree at the Golden lumber camp 83 miles northeast of here. The accident occurred Tuesday.

PENGUIN DIES

VANCOUVER — Chico, the first King Penguin to be born and raised in captivity in North America died here, only two months short of his second birthday.

There now are only two penguins living in the famed colony at Vancouver's Stanley Park.

But zoo curator Alan Best says all is not lost because he suspects one of the birds may produce an egg in a week or two.

BABY LEFT BEHIND

VANCOUVER — Taxi-driver Vic Charlton, who has five children of his own, has asked police to help him find a couple who left their baby with him to look after for three days and did not return.

The driver said he befriended the couple when he gave them a ride in his cab. He said they asked him to look after the baby for the weekend nine days ago and have not been in touch with him since.

Charlton said he traced the couple to a west-end hotel, where he found they had skipped out leaving a $100 bill unpaid. He said they gave him a box of soap, a bottle of bleach and two bags of carrots at the time they left the baby with him.

SUSPECT "LITUP"

VANCOUVER — The suspect was all lit up. Police, finding seven capsules of narcotics near a fence, put them back after dusting them with phosphorus. They arrested a 38-year-old man who picked up the cache and swallowed it. Ultra-violet light at headquarters made his lips light up and he was charged.

Arena Managers' Meeting Elects Two Victoria Men

Two Victoria men were named to the executive of the British Columbia Arena Managers' Association at the convention in Trail.

Bill Oliver, manager of the Victoria Curling Rink, was elected secretary-treasurer, and Joe Dukowski, manager of Victoria Memorial Arena, was appointed a director.

President of the association is J. O. Evans, manager of the Vancouver Forum.

Convention discussed provincial fire regulations, particularly in respect to public buildings, agreeing that a review of the statutes is necessary.

Hospitals Ask More Cash, Fear Loss of Key Workers

Confidence In BCHIS Waning, Cabinet Told

The provincial government must increase assistance to community hospitals or it may soon be difficult to find both hospital personnel and people to serve on hospital boards, the B.C. cabinet was warned today.

A seven-point brief, outlining urgent requirements for government aid, was presented to the B.C. cabinet today by the executive of the B.C. Hospitals' Association.

Specifically, the delegation wants extension of contributory medical insurance to all hospital employees with costs paid by BCHIS; a contributory superannuation plan (such as exists at Royal Jubilee and Vancouver General) extended to all hospital workers in the province; increased allowances for depreciation and maintenance; a more liberal policy for hospital budgets and higher daily rates or permission for the hospitals to make additional charges; increased allowances for care to welfare patients and improved liaison with the government.

The brief was submitted by BCHA president J. H. Hargrave of Trail, H. R. Slade, D. A. Thompson, L. F. C. Kirby, J. V. Hughes, H. E. Taylor, P. Ward and K. Conibear, executive secretary.

The delegation said the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service is on the whole, a good service. "Nevertheless, we must report that many of our members appear at this time to be losing confidence in BCHIS. A sense of frustration, of ineffectiveness, has been voiced at many hospital meetings."

The brief referred to the recent trouble at Prince Rupert when a majority of the hospital board resigned in protest at the tight rein held on hospital operations under BCHIS.

The incident at Prince Rupert... further aggravated the discontent and sense of frustration. Why should devoted men and women serve on hospital boards if one result of their efforts is censure in the public press?

The health minister was absent from today's meeting, being himself a patient in hospital.

The brief asked, "Why accept responsibility for managing hospitals without the power to manage them effectively? These are the questions some of our members are asking and if they are not satisfactorily answered, it may soon be difficult to find suitable personnel, first on the boards, and then all down the line on hospital staffs."

BENEFITS URGED
The brief said the extension of medical insurance and a superannuation plan for all employees should be effective by Jan. 1, when it would be an advantage in bargaining with employee unions, to help avoid wage increases.

"You may be assured, that with these two benefits to offer to their employees, hospital boards would be able to put up strong resistance to any substantial wage increases in the coming year."

Present allowances in approved budgets for maintenance and depreciation are unrealistic, the delegation said, but it left the degree of need open to negotiation. It asked that hospitals be permitted more freedom in writing their own society bylaws, as conditions vary in various areas.

Regarding hospital financing, the delegation said, "We feel that a point comes when economy can go too far and defeat its own ends, and that this point has been passed in many public hospitals."

CONTINUAL OVERDRAFTS
It was noted that some hospitals "have used up all working capital and face continual bank overdrafts."

The brief added, "Government revenue per capita has increased 18.9 per cent (in the four-year period 1953 to 1957) while the total cost per patient day has increased only 17.5 per cent and the total hospital expense per capita has increased only 11.4 per cent. Hospitals in other words, have received, not an increasing but a decreasing share of the tax revenue."

WELFARE BOOST
The brief asked that social service allowance to hospitals caring for welfare patients should be increased to $7 a day instead of the $5.50 now paid.

RECENT WINNER of a $1,600 teaching assistantship at the University of British Columbia, John Francis Raymond Ashworth, 26, of 3120 Steele Street, has claimed another prize of $250. Scholarship was awarded for graduate study by the B.C. Electric Co. Mr. Ashworth attended St. Louis College and Victoria College and taught in the Victoria area before going back to UBC.

TOOK WALLET

Trio Hunted In Tourist Shakedown

NANAIMO—Police here are searching for three youths who promised a visitor from the United States they would "show him the town," then stole his wallet containing $70.

The victim, whose name was not revealed by RCMP, told police he had met the three youths in a downtown bar, and that after a few drinks they offered to show him around.

After driving about for some time, they went to the Esplanade, a quiet street near the waterfront south of the business section, where they took his wallet and forced him from the car.

He walked to the police station, reporting the theft took place at 4 a.m. today. He told police he had not been harmed.

'BRIGHTENER' FORECAST FOR WEEKEND

Cloudy skies, showers, and westerly winds expected to reach 35 miles per hour this evening will give way to partial clearing Friday and a "favorable" weekend weather, man William Mackie said today.

Clouds and rain today were blamed on a storm which brushed the north coast of Vancouver Island on its way to southeast Alaska.

Temperatures tonight and Friday will range between 50 and 62 degrees, Mr. Mackie said.

Hit Run Driver Sought By Police

Police are looking for driver of a blue and white car which left the scene of an accident at Fernwood and Vining about 4 p.m. Tuesday, leaving cyclist Mike Watson, 13, of 2605 Belmont, with a broken arm.

The motorist is possibly unaware there had been a collision, which police said happened when the car cut in front of the bicycle to go east on Vining. The bike struck the car's right rear fender, police said.

The boy was treated at Jubilee Hospital.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. When was the date the First World War officially ended? P.E.D.

A. It was officially ended June 28, 1919, when representatives of the Allied powers and Germany signed the Treaty of Versailles at Versailles, France. Its provisions were brought into force by exchange of ratifications Jan. 10, 1920.

Q. Would you please tell me the name of the "Tree That Grows In Brooklyn?" E.P.

A. You apparently refer to the tree in the book "A Tree Grows In Brooklyn." This tree is identified as an alnus, that is, just any tree that drops its leaves.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question, along with the name and address, to "Ask The Times," Editor, Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve comedowns or legal problems. Nor will it address itself to a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealers.

HOME TRIUMPHANT are these three Victoria girls who between them snared a $100 scholarship and two other prizes at Vancouver School of Art. Scholarship winner was Kara Lou O'Brien, 18, 1415 Fort, second from right, awarded for outstanding work in first year; $50 prize for oil painting went to Paddy Cooter, 22, 1885 Lansdowne, right, and $25 for oil painting to Ann Redford, 22, 105 Beach. Girls have taken jobs as salesgirls at a city handicrafts store to earn money for further art tuition. (Jorgen Svendsen photo)

HERE AND THERE... With NORMAN CRIBBENS

I'm told the Butchart Gardens staff had difficulty identifying a tree which suddenly burst into glorious white bloom for the first time.

So they called in provincial botanist Dr. Adam Szezwinski.

He identified it as the dove tree (Davidia involuta), a native of West China, so named because the blooms look like white doves when the wind blows through them.

The flowers are about seven inches across and somewhat resemble the dogwood. The tree is 20 feet high, the only one of its kind in Victoria, and was planted years ago by Mrs. R. P. Butchart, founder of our famous gardens.

S.O.S. from the Public Library: "Mr. Cribbens—in returning our Beethoven records you inadvertently enclosed one of your own Fats Waller's."

"Now how did those two get together?"

Out at Patricia Bay I watched a bevy of American tourists simultaneously snap-shooting the quaint little brown-faced church of Holy Trinity.

"What do they call that thing in front of it?" asked one.

"A lych gate," I replied.

They tell me the lumber for the church was cut in 1887 at Genoa Bay sawmill, built into a raft and rowed across to the nearest shore.

The bell tower was added in 1889 and the lych gate in 1957.

Rush-hour traffic in Victoria and Vancouver is just a Sunday school picnic compared to that of Rome or London, says Highways Minister Phil Gaglardi, back from a tour of Europe.

"The cars stretch nose to tail for miles on end and move at a snail's pace. It's murder for a man who wants to go places in a hurry."

Especially Flying Phil!

Why do modern novelists feel they have to be crude in order to be realistic? asks a Times reader.

I've wondered that, too. Surely it is better to stimulate by suggestive restraint. Here, for example, is one of the Victorian era. W. W. Jacobs, describing the language of an angry seaman:

"The seaman, in a few well-chosen words, cast some doubt on the legality of the mate's parentage and inferred he was a threat to feminine virtue."

What could be more effective?

TOPICS OF THE DAY

B.C. Health Minister Eric Martin is in "fairly good" condition at St. Joseph's Hospital following admittance last weekend. The family advises the minister was "overtired."

He has been bothered in the past with a bronchial condition. He is expected to return to his home next week.

H. Burrow, a veteran of 12 years in the federal department of fisheries service at Prince Rupert, Bella Bella and Alert Bay, has taken charge of the Victoria area.

The controversial movie "Tourist Go-Home," made by the National Film Board of Canada, will be shown at a meeting of Victoria Restaurant Association at Dulcie's Restaurant, 512 Fort Street next Tuesday at 8.15 p.m.

A number of sacramental communion glasses were stolen by vandals who broke into Knox Presbyterian Church, Pembroke and Gladstone, Tuesday afternoon.

Three boys were seen leaving the church and juvenile officers are investigating.

A number of cupboards were forced open and papers strewn about after entry was gained by means of a poorly-fitted rear door.

Four-year-old Debra Newhook, 3215 Albion, was treated for a scalp abrasion after she was in collision with a car at Burnside and Harriet at 5.15 p.m. Wednesday.

Police said the girl ran into a crosswalk and was in collision with a car driven by Ellen Bowden, 2435 Granite.

Glen Lageri, 1168 Caledonia, who is charged with criminal negligence in the death May 16 of Mrs. Edna Berreth, 1711 Mortimer, was committed to trial when he appeared in Saanich police court today.

Mrs. Berreth, 31, died as result of injuries received when a car driven by her husband was in collision with one driven by Lageri at Douglas and Cloverdale.

Time loss due to industrial disputes in British Columbia for the first five months of 1959 is drastically reduced from the same period last year, Labor Minister Lyle Wicks announced today.

For the period Jan. 1 to March 31 of this year, 30 employees were in dispute with 2,357 workmen and the total time lost was 49,784 man days.

In the same period of 1958, there were 171 disputes involving 10,208 employees and a total time loss of 238,500 man days.

Shipyard Job Situation Still Below Average

Job situation at Victoria shipyards continues below average, with a "slight improvement" at Yarrows Ltd. balanced by a "drifting down" in the work force at Victoria Machinery Depot.

Yarrows is presently working on annual overhaul of deep-sea cargo ship Francis Falman, after completing similar job to cargo ship Pan.

Yarrows has about 500 men on the yard payroll, compared to some 350 at VMD.

VMD managing director Harold Husband said a freighter and dredge were due for construction on the west coast, but he said there was "no guarantee" the contracts would come to Victoria.

$20,000 WING Ker Gallery Under Way Next Month

Tenders for the $20,000 commemorative "Ker Gallery" for the Victoria Art Gallery will be called before the end of June, with work to start before the end of July, the architects, Polson and Siddall, announced today.

Construction is expected to be finished by late October or early November.

The 20 by 70-foot glass fronted addition will be to the east facade of the new centennial wing.

Gallery curator Colin Graham said today present exhibition space is utilized mostly for traveling collections, but with the addition of the new gallery, there will be adequate room for the permanent collection and overflow from non-permanent displays.

The donation has been made by R. H. B. Ker, Gordon Head, whose family has been prominent in business and social life of the city for the past century.

Mr. Ker said today the contribution was made "as an appreciation of the heritage we enjoy today after 100 years in Victoria. It is indeed happy that the Ker family is able to make this donation to the cultural life of this community."

Boxla Star Committed

Victoria lacrosse player James L. McNulty, 29, was formally committed to trial when he appeared in Colwood RCMP court Wednesday charged with criminal negligence in the death of a former fellow player.

A preliminary hearing, in which it was alleged McNulty drove a car which crashed and caused fatal injuries to James Richard "Peewee" Bradshaw, 27, May 3, was conducted last week.

Bail was set at $5,000 pending trial in a higher court, probably in the fall.

Truck Tax Up July 15

The new 12-cent per gallon tax on diesel, propane and butane truck fuels, approved in the last session of the B.C. legislature will be effective July 15.

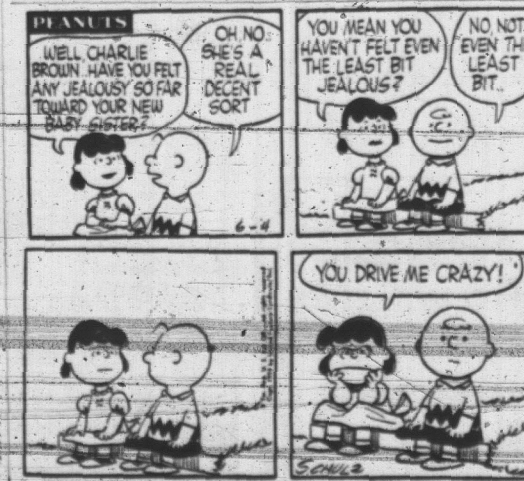

The rate is an increase of 5.29 cents per gallon. The tax is to be collected on a mileage basis rather than at the pumps.

Thus a truck fueling in another province or state will still be required to pay the B.C. tax. Each firm using trucks on B.C. highways will be required to make monthly returns, showing the mileage on B.C. highways.

The new department of commercial transport is increasing the number of weigh station check points in B.C. to assist in keeping track of the use made of highways by the heavy vehicles.

The government hopes to increase its revenue from this source by up to $4,000,000 annually through the tax increase plus a new higher schedule of licence and overload fees.

An order in council approved today also makes it necessary for all sellers of truck fuels to make monthly returns to the government to ensure a double check.

VON MEETING TOLD

Longer Life Span Creates Health and Nursing Problems

The physical health of the nation is better protected than ever before yet Victorian Order nursing is needed as it has never been needed in all our history.

The director-in-chief of the VON, Miss Christine Livingston, of Ottawa, made this thought-provoking statement in her address to the annual meeting of the VON for British Columbia, in the Greater Victoria Art Gallery, at noon today.

Factors that influence VON service and that will affect it in the future, Miss Livingston said, include joint federal-provincial health programs, of hospital insurance, "which will affect us by the new opportunities presented for increased service"; the problems associated with illness in an aging population, "even more pressing because of the extension of hospital insurance plans" and the great strides being taken in rehabilitations work "which is the very heart of our service."

District or visiting nursing, upon which much of the work of the VON is patterned, started in the British Isles in 1859, Miss Livingston pointed out.

"Even then the need of patients in a state of convalescence but still requiring care was a problem," she said.

"Today, care of patients on their discharge from hospital is even more important than it was then."

"This is where the Victorian Order comes into the picture. We have taken skilled nursing care under the direction of a doctor, into people's homes for the past 61 years. We are now developing a closer relationship with hospitals through a system of hospital referrals."

"Closely related to the hospital referral system but wider in the scope of services offered are various types of home care programs."

Miss Livingston concluded by pointing out that today the average life span of Canadians has been extended but at the same time the miracles of modern science have created new problems.

Modern knowledge of nursing and rehabilitation present new ways to help patients back to health.

"The word rehabilitation has become almost a by-word in present day society," she said, "and the national VON and its branches are concentrating on educational programs that will give our nurses the modern skills needed to meet these new demands."

PRESIDENT SAYS

Referral System Now Ultimate Aim of VON

Hospital referral system on a contractual basis with individual hospitals is ultimate aim of the Victorian Order of Nurses in British Columbia, Mrs. S. D. Markham, retiring president, said this morning.

Reporting at the provincial annual meeting convening in the Greater Victoria Art Gallery, the retiring president pointed out that "if agreement on the matter could be reached between the government of British Columbia and the federal government, provision for this could be made under the out-patient clauses as set forth in the Hospital Insurance and Diagnostic Services Act."

The B.C. Legislature approved a plan to negotiate this matter with the VON at conclusion of the last session, Mrs. Markham said.

In the meantime, branches in Vancouver, Victoria, North Vancouver and Surrey are developing "a referral system with the hospitals in their respective localities."

Owing to the fact that, at present, patients may stay in hospital for a dollar a day under Hospital Insurance, and therefore see no necessity for paying a visiting nurse privately, "this service cannot grow to any extent unless it is at no charge," Mrs. Markham said, "therefore the hospital bed shortage is not appreciably relieved."

"However, we feel that by setting up the system where possible, we put the VON foot in the door for future openings."

Marriage Vows Said in Home

White snapdragons and gladioli decorated the home of Sgt. Maj. Alice M. Saunders, 215 St. Lawrence Street, for the marriage of her sister, Mrs. Nellie M. Laird, and Ernest (Mike) Bennett early this week. Brig. C. J. Milley officiated at the morning wedding.

For the service, the bride wore a sheath-style dress of imported aqua cotton brocade. Her hat was of white satin and she had matching accessories. Corsage was in pink tone.

Attendant was the bride's sister, Sgt. Maj. Saunders. She wore a floral nylon dress, mauve hat and white floral corsage. Best man was Gordon E. Bennett.

A luncheon reception followed the marriage. A low bowl of pink roses centred the table. Travelling on honeymoon, the bride wore an ensemble in gold tone. She topped the outfit with an aqua topcoat. Her hat was of gold toned straw.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennett will make their home at 1639 Pembroke street after a motor trip in the United States. Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hawkes of Nanaimo.

Came Rebekah Lodge, Odd Fellows' Hall, Douglas Street, tonight at 7.30. Refreshments will be served.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — I had a ball at Ethel Merman's "Gypsy" opening—spelled "bawl." I kept dabbing at my eyes... and now it appears that Miss Merman may be heading back to Hollywood eventually to film one of the great tear-wrenchers of modern times.

MGM's president Sol Siegel wants to film the tear-stained tale of Gypsy Rose Lee and her mother... and naturally, "The Merm" isn't any more eager to star in it than Dick Nixon is to send his laundry out from 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue.

David Niven, Merle Oberon, Henry Fonda, Nancy Sinatra, Benay Venuta, Paulette Goddard, Gloria Vanderbilt Lumet and Mitzel Gaynor were just a few of the Slobber Set who got misty-eyed at the tender passages. Gypsy Rose Lee didn't stay tearful very long.

"I just told Ethel to drink a lot of milk and stay healthy," she's going to be my annuity," announced Gypsy as she breezed out.

(My favorite line in the show came when Ethel, spurning a fourth marriage, said, "After three husbands, it takes a lot of butter to get you back into the frying pan.")

Travel exec Bill Fugazy has arranged to transfer 65 of the present crop of Paris beauties back to Paris from Las Vegas and bring another 65 back for a new show: A $100,000 shipment of femininity. Solly Schwartz, who would book the Lido show into the Palace, hasn't yet seen the naked beauties wiggle at the Stardust.

Sherry Britton, who hurt her head badly when a jet plane stopped suddenly, opened Friday night, anyway, at the Bal Tabarin—while lawyers prepare a legal action on her behalf against an airline. Her doctor allowed her to do her striptease act—inasmuch as her head is the least important part in it.

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Bob Hammond, age 11, of Garland, Texas, for his question:

Why Doesn't the Air Run Out of Oxygen?

We breathe oxygen from the air, of course, every minute all our lives. So do all the animals, tame and wild. Trees, plants and even the grass also need oxygen from the air. All the fishes and other creatures in the rivers, lakes and seas need oxygen. They take the oxygen which is mixed with the water just as we take the free oxygen mixed with the air.

This means that tons of oxygen are being used up every day and if the supply ran out most living things would perish in a few minutes. This tremendous drain on our oxygen supplies is by no means all. Every fire uses oxygen as a fuel. Even a candle uses a small quota of oxygen from the air. If the world's oxygen ran out, all burning from furnaces to campfires would also come to an end in a few minutes.

Things have been this way since life on earth began, perhaps billions of years ago. During that time, the amount of oxygen used by living things might well equal the weight of the entire earth. Certainly this vast mass of oxygen was not all there at the beginning, either hanging in the air or mixed with the water. We know then that we are not gradually using up a fixed supply of oxygen. Actually we do not have to worry about the vital gas running short at all. For Mother Nature provides her creatures with fresh supplies of oxygen every day. We shall not run short of it so long as there are forests of green trees, shrubs, plants and green grass in the world.

The world's supply of oxygen is supplied by one of Nature's economic cycles and a cycle is something which goes around and around. Our oxygen is used, reprocessed and used again and again. And the reprocessing of oxygen is done by the kingdom of green plants.

Plants Use Waste Gas

We use the oxygen we breathe as a fuel and in the process it is turned into waste carbon dioxide. This waste gas is useless to us and every time we breathe out we pour some of it into the air. However, carbon dioxide is not a waste gas as far as the green plant world is concerned. All green plants need carbon dioxide to make their food.

Plants are green because they contain a substance called chlorophyll. This magic fluid uses water from the soil, air and sunlight to manufacture plant sugar, the basic food-stuff from which all plant parts are made. In the process of making sugar, the carbon and some of the oxygen is used from the carbon dioxide gas. Some oxygen is left over from the recipe as a waste product.

The oxygen is poured out from every green leaf during daylight hours. Some, but far from all of it, is used by the plants themselves. The rest is waste as far as the plants are concerned. Tons of this reprocessed oxygen are added to the air every day and wafted by the breezes around the world. We breathe it, the animals breathe it, and in the process return carbon dioxide to the air. The cycle goes on and on. So long as there are plants, green forests and meadows, the air will get fresh supplies of oxygen every day.

Andy sends a Hammond's Nature Atlas of America to Robert Nielsen, age nine, of Salt Lake City, Utah, for his question:

Are turtles and tortoises different animals?

All these armor-plated animals are classed in the animal order Chelonina, a name coined from an older word for shield. Experts claim that there is very little difference between them. In everyday language, however, we tend to divide the ancient order of Chelonina into the turtles and the tortoises.

A turtle is a water-loving chelonian, with legs best suited for swimming. There are about 250 different turtles, ranging from the size of a teacup saucer to that of a small flying saucer. The big turtles dwell in the deep ocean and often measure eight feet or more.

A tortoise is a land lubber chelonian. True, he is a slow and clumsy walker, but his legs are fitted best for traveling over land. These fellows also range in size from teacup saucers to flying saucers. The biggest is the 500-pound tortoise of the Galapagos Islands.

'Thinking' Machine University Project

SASKATOON (CP)—The University of Saskatchewan has launched a program to develop a machine that can learn and think.

When developed, in perhaps 10 years, the machine may be used in air traffic control, scientific weather forecasting, production scheduling, inventory taking and complex time-tableing.

But there is no danger of it replacing the human brain.

"Faced with problems in human relations or politics—anything to do with human beings—the machine would break down completely," says Prof. Arthur Porter, in charge of the program.

UNIQUE PROGRAM

The program is the only one of its kind in Canada. It is receiving federal grants and will get $50,000 next year. By that time, the research team, still being organized, will number about 20 persons including students.

Prof. Porter, dean of engineering at the University of Saskatchewan, expanded on the program in an interview Monday after delivering a paper on "the evolution of intelligent automata" to the physics section of the Royal Society. The society is meeting here as part of the Conference of Learned Societies.

Royalty in 'Crocus' New Canadian Play

SASKATOON (CP) — Some of Canada's most eminent scholars attended the opening of W. O. Mitchell's Royalty this week and were rewarded with what reviewers called first-class entertainment.

The comedy play depicted a royal visit to the imaginary town of Crocus, Sask., and featured characters already well known from Mr. Mitchell's radio series, Jake and the Kid.

Mr. Mitchell attended the opening performance and made a brief appearance following three curtain calls for the performers.

The play was directed by Prof. Emrys Jones, head of the University of Saskatchewan's drama department, and played by an all-Saskatchewan cast.

The play tells of plans in Crocus to welcome Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip and arguments over such details as the refusal of Moses Lefthand to wear war paint, feathers and moccasins. Then word is received that the royal train will not even stop at Crocus.

Members of the Royal Society of Canada, meeting here as part of the Conference of Learned Societies, were guests at the performance. So were members of the provincial cabinet and the university board of governors.

The play runs until June 15. It is to be produced in England later.

Mr. Mitchell wrote the play partly for the occasion of the Royal Visit this summer. It was produced here to help mark the university's 50th anniversary.

Assault Charge Withdrawn; Both Parties to Pay

Costs of $5 each were levied against both accused and complainant after a charge of assault causing bodily harm was withdrawn in city police court Wednesday.

Complainant Mrs. Matilda Smith was reprimanded by Magistrate William Ostler for asking to withdraw the criminal charge "because I don't want the boy to have a record."

Prosecutor Angus Smith said he was satisfied the boy, Richard Conway, 19, Market, did not intend to harm anyone when he threw a rock which struck Mrs. Smith's teen-aged daughter Joyce on the head.

Conway was assessed costs for failing to appear on a summons. He said he mistook the time to appear in court.

Tunnel Race in Mountain

CHAMONIX, France (UPI) — French Transport Minister Robert Buron fired the opening gun last week in what has developed into a race between France and Italy to dig a highway tunnel under Mont Blanc.

At a ceremony which brought officials from Paris, Rome and Berne to this Alpine ski resort, Buron set off high explosives to blast the opening hole in the French side of the 15,781-foot mountain.

Three hundred and forty French workers and technicians then began the task of digging through Mont Blanc, knowing that the Italians on the other side of the mountain are already 500 yards ahead.

Reports say the team that gets there first will have the honor of blasting through the last feet of rock and thus "opening" the world's longest vehicular tunnel under Europe's highest mountain.

The project, whose cost is estimated between $20,000,000 and $30,000,000 dollars, did not start out as a race but as a piece of sound economic co-operation. It still is that.

Driving time from Paris to Rome will be cut from three days to two when the project is completed three or four years hence. As an all-weather all-year-round vehicular route piercing the ancient barrier of the Alps, the ruler-straight tunnel is expected to speed the flow of commerce between the European common market member countries.

ICE BLANKET COVERS TOWN AFTER STORM

SELDEN, Kan. (AP)—A hail storm battered this Prairie village in northwest Kansas for two hours Wednesday night, covering the town with 1½ feet of ice.

Extent of the damage hasn't been determined but officials said it will be heavy. The roofs of four business houses and several homes collapsed under the weight of the ice. A torrential rain followed the hail, flooding many basements.

Many of Selden's 485 residents abandoned their homes for more substantial shelter. Only one person was hurt, a man who suffered a cut when a bank awning toppled and hit him on the head.

Ontario Leaving For Vancouver And Scrap June 15

Former RCN cruiser, Ontario, berthed at Esquimalt since she was paid off in October last year, will be towed to Vancouver about June 15 and broken up there for scrap.

A spokesman for Catermole-Tretheway Contractors Ltd., which purchased the ship in early May from War Assets Corp., said it had not yet been decided which shipyard would be used for scrapping.

"And we may use the hull for a long barge or a dredge, but it is too early to say exactly," he said.

While purchase price was earlier estimated at under $300,000, the spokesman said this figure "is considerably too high," although he could not name the exact figure.

The Ontario cost $35,000,000 to build in 1945.

Logger Fined For Damaging Tree in Park

CAMPBELL RIVER—One doesn't high-rig trees in a provincial park.

Logger Robert Kreutziger learned this fact as a cost of $25 in police court here after he had been found guilty of damaging a tree in Elk Falls Park last week.

The fine was levied after Magistrate P. E. Lewis heard evidence to the effect that Kreutziger had been found with full high-rigging gear in a tree at the park.

Park attendants said that when they went to discover the reason for a long line-up of spectators in the park they found the logger busy debarking a 200-foot tree. He had already lopped off the limbs of the tree and taken off about 20 feet of bark.

He said he was practicing for a high-rigging competition.

Magistrate Lewis told him that the beauty of the parks must be preserved and fined him $25.

REVIEW EDITED BY UBC PROF

The first publication exclusively devoted to reviewing and criticizing Canadian literature will be published at the University of British Columbia in September.

The quarterly journal, entitled "Canadian Literature," a quarterly of criticism and review, will be edited by George Woodcock, an assistant professor in the UBC English department.

The review's first task, Mr. Woodcock said, will be to keep readers informed of what is happening from year to year in the Canadian literary world.

Each issue will carry a full review section of current Canadian writing and the first issue each year will carry a complete bibliography of books written by a Canadian or about Canada.

Other articles will deal with reassessments of past writers and literary movements. Canadian novelists, poets and writers will be asked to state their views about writing and special attention will be given to French-Canadian literature.

INCO RESEARCH helps Canada grow

Testing at Inco laboratories

Inco laboratory technicians use this testing machine to help develop high temperature alloys. The information obtained helps Inco scientists—and industry—select the metals that will perform best at high temperatures.

INCO RESEARCH helps beat heat

The raging inferno inside a jet engine. The blazing depths of an industrial furnace. Even the heating elements in electric ranges, toasters and other household appliances. All these present hot metal problems.

Inside a jet engine, for instance, temperatures may reach 1600°F. Hot enough to make some metals soft, other metals brittle.

But jet engine parts can take the blistering punishment of extreme heat. Furnace parts stand up to their job, too. So do heating elements in home appliances.

Why? Largely because of design and metal research. For many years scientists at Inco have been conducting special experiments with nickel. This hard tough metal, when combined with other metals, adds remarkable resistance to heat and corrosion.

Out of this research came a whole new range of high temperature nickel-containing alloys—such as Inconel®, used in jet engines, and Incoloy®, for tubular sheathing on electric range elements.

When requirements call for metals capable of withstanding still higher temperatures, when jet engines develop greater power—and generate greater heat—Inco research will be at work developing new alloys to do these jobs well. That's how Inco research helps Canada grow.

Victoria Doors Shut To Homesick Navy Boys

By TONY DICKASON

There's a "situation" with the single RCN enlisted men here today.

Apparently they would prefer to be stationed almost anywhere else, even Halifax.

And the majority prefer Vancouver to Victoria.

It rarely happens here.

There's a five-year-old establishment, the Armed Service Centre, 1305 Broad, telephone EV-20771, that tries to fill in spare-time activities of service personnel—98 per cent navy—on a constructive basis.

200 A DAY

The centre does well, about 200 chaps a day from the services wander through—but really that is all they are doing, wandering.

H. G. "Hutch" Hutchings, 38, a former policeman, who has been manager of the ASC about 15 months, says he wants to hear from Victoria householders who can spare the time to take a serviceman fishing some weekend; have him out for dinner, ping-pong in the basement or even for coffee.

"I will recommend 99 per cent, highly, of all those who use our facilities here. They are extremely well behaved. They respect this establishment."

Main function of the centre is to act as a sort of liaison office between troops at large, homes and the things that smack of home.

Only in some respects has this practice been successful.

PLEA FROM ADMIRAL

The navy's hospitality, a tradition, has not been reciprocated here to the degree it might be.

Even the admiral, Rear Admiral H. S. Rayner, Flag Officer, Pacific Coast, says the navy men "would enjoy it very much" if Victoria householders would just a little bit more open hearts and homes to the men.

"Hutch" has had RCN visitors out to his place many times, but he can't handle them all.

"Almost the sole alternative to assistance and interest by the public is the local beer parlor," he said.

The sailors aren't rough and tough, says "Hutch," but just kids away from home. They'll even settle, and most happily, for a drive around the city.

"WE WANT A HOME"

The centre offers newspapers, radio, TV (purchased by the men themselves), showers, 319 lockers for fellows who want to change from uniform to civvies, a dance each Monday attended by nurses-in-training, and beach parties.

But the management and board of directors do not want the centre to become merely a check-point.

This can't happen without the volunteered home influence.

There is a thought, not without backing, that the ASC might seek charity funds. Main source is an annual push to raise money for the centre, coming up on June 19—a posh ball with a heavy ticket charge.

But Joe, from Nova Scotia, aged 18, and away from home for the first time, would still like to say a shy "hello" some weekend to a friendly family here.

Too Much Coddling Judge Warns Youths

SEATTLE (AP)—Juvenile delinquents here were given a warning Wednesday from the courts . . . "We have a new policy for punks."

Superior Judge Henry Clay Agnew told it in those words as the smiles faded from the faces of two 15-year-old boys before him on charges of burglary and car theft.

The judge deferred sentencing for three years, but said he expected the boys to get in trouble again within 30 days.

"If you do, you will both be sentenced to 15 years in the state reformatory for violating the law again in any way . . . and I think you will," he said.

"You are hardened criminals. Under our previous policy of coddling, I have felt we had licensed people such as you to escape from Green Hill (the state school for boys) and steal cars and commit burglaries."

Both boys have escaped from the unvalled state school several times. The last time, Feb. 9, they stole several cars and looted a Seattle store.

City Pigeonholes Bid to Take Over Electrical Work

A Hume and Rumble Ltd. bid to take over the city lighting department was pigeonholed Tuesday after an hour-long discussion by city public works committee.

Instead, the committee ordered a report drawn up on feasibility of moving city lighting superintendent Kenneth Reid from his garbage wharf office to the City Hall and cutting one clerk from the staff.

Mr. Reid pointed out that the department was performing street lighting work for less than the $87,000 contract price tendered by the company which Hume and Rumble district manager E. V. Davidson claimed would save the city $13,000.

The Toronto Rowing Club, established in 1856, was Canada's first oarsmen's organization.

NAVY MORALE HIGHER SAYS RETIRED ADMIRAL

WINNIPEG (CP)—Rear-Admiral Walter Hose, who commanded one of the Royal Canadian Navy's first warships in 1911, says navy morale is better than it was in those days.

The retired officer, here for the annual meeting of the Naval Officers' Association of Canada, said that technical developments have not taken the spirit out of the navy.

"Electronic devices tend to improve the teamwork between ranks and ratings," he said. "Jobs are of more equal importance today and everyone realizes the interdependence of team members, moral is higher than it has ever been."

SKIMS ABOVE WATER ON AIR CUSHION

Britain to Unveil 'Sea Saucer'

COWES, Eng. (AP)—Britain next week takes the secret wraps off a strange-looking machine it claims is the first ever flying saucer—in this world anyhow.

It's the sea-saucer, a hybrid aircraft and ship that its designers believe could be the forerunner of giant craft revolutionizing air travel.

The machine skims a few feet above the waves on a cushion of air.

It makes its maiden voyage on June 11.

Few persons have seen it. Publicly, only the simplest details are known. It has been one of British aviation's most tightly guarded secrets.

A conventional piston engine of 450 horsepower draws air through an intake at the top of the machine and blows it out the bottom.

Air pressure built up beneath the machine lifts it. An increase in pressure creates an air cushion beneath the craft, and on this it squats.

TORONTO (CP)—Rev. Dr. Alexander Nimmo of Wingham, Ont., Wednesday night was elected on the first ballot as moderator of the 85th general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

Girl Fights Off Attackers

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 14-year-old girl who was abducted as she walked home from school here fought her way clear of two knife-wielding youths and collapsed in the arms of a neighbor.

The girl ran to T. W. Heseltyn as he worked in his front garden. Although near collapse, she told him two young men stopped their car beside her, asked questions, then forced her in by holding a knife at her back.

She said the youths asked for directions to Burnaby then drove to a wooded area where they parked. Still at knife-point, the girl was forced into the bush, where she resisted attack.

Her clothing was torn before she broke free. The youths drove away when they saw she had escaped.

4 Tiny Space Mice Perish In Rocket's Fiery Plunge

(Times News Services)

RUSSIA ASKS BRITAIN TO PUSH LAOS MISSION

GENEVA (CP)—Russia today called on Britain to urge the government of Laos to accept the revival of the three-nation armistice supervisory commission.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko made the proposal in a 35-minute talk with British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd.

Communist sources said Russia wants Britain to agree to a joint message urging the revival of the commission, which has not held a working session since last July. The commission is made up of representatives of Canada, Poland and India.

IF BERLIN THREAT LIFTED

West Willing To Cut Force

GENEVA (AP)—Western officials said today the United States, Britain and France may be willing to cut their 10,000-man force in West Berlin if the Soviet Union agrees to drop its threat to the city.

CPR Depot Burns

CHATHAM, Ont. (UPI)—A $200,000 fire destroyed the Canadian Pacific Railway office and freight sheds in Chatham today.

Royal Wedding Report

BRUSSELS (AP)—King Baudouin intends to marry a French princess, a Belgian weekly newspaper said today. It reported his engagement to Princess Marie Therese of Bourbon Parma will be announced within a month.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Eternal God, in these days of noise and confusion, when life's demands often weigh heavily upon us, help us to make these quiet moments of reflection and meditation a source of spiritual refreshment. Then, having been refreshed in mind, heart, and soul, send us out with courage and strength to do Thy holy will among those whose lives we shall touch and influence this day, through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

U.S. State Secretary Christian A. Herter and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd both are reported to feel that some progress has been made. It is still extremely tentative, however, and Gromyko could switch back to his maximum demands for Western withdrawal from Berlin at any moment.

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif.—The Discoverer III satellite vehicle, fired aloft with four "space mice" aboard Thursday, re-entered the earth's atmosphere and burned up, it was announced today.

Roy W. Johnson, director of the advanced research projects, said that "all available data" indicated the mouse-carrying rocket plunged its tiny passengers to a fiery death several thousand miles south of here within minutes after launching.

But Air Force authorities indicated that valuable information was received on the mice during the period of rocket lift-off, the period of "weightlessness" in space and the period when the satellite stage fired to inject itself into orbit.

"One of the possibilities under investigation," Johnson's statement said, "was that the injection (into orbit) angle of the vehicle was improper, causing it to re-enter the atmosphere."

The Air Force wanted the mice then to orbit the earth for 26 hours, then parachute in their air-conditioned capsule.

The two-stage Thor missile roared into space as scheduled Wednesday and sent back radio signals for 13 minutes. Then the signals stopped.

CATCH PLANNED

Planes had been poised to try a difficult aerial catch over the Pacific but officials had given them only one chance in 700 of succeeding.

The mice would have been the first creatures retrieved alive from orbit. Two monkeys were fired into space from Cape Canaveral by the army May 28 but their trip covered only 150 miles.

Strapped on the backs of the mice were tiny radios. These were intended to relay their heartbeat, breathing, temperature and muscular activity back to earth.

'Anti-Labor Trend Growing in Canada'

TORONTO (CP)—Leaders of the nation's biggest single union today sounded separate warnings of a "growing" anti-labor, anti-union trend in Canada.

The speakers—top directors of the 83,000-member United Steelworkers of America (CLC)—expressed alarm in opening reports to the union's national policy conference here.

"We are meeting this year in an atmosphere influenced by a constant barrage of anti-labor propaganda," William Mahoney, U.S.W.A. national director, told some 300 local union leaders at the conference.

CIVIL SERVICE CHAIRMAN

OTTAWA (CP)—Appointment of Mr. Justice Samuel Hughes, 46, of the Ontario Supreme Court as the new chairman of the civil service commission was announced today by Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Born in Victoria, B.C., Hughes was educated in England and Canada. He was called to the Ontario bar in 1947.

PM Names Railway Probers

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker today announced appointment of a three-member commission to report on the merits of alternative routes for a railway from Northern Alberta to the southern shore of Great Slave Lake.

Marshall E. Manning, Edmonton lawyer, will be chairman of the commission which will have as members W. D. Gainer, an agricultural economist at the University of Alberta, and John Anderson, Thompson of Yellowknife, N.W.T.

Convicts Captured

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—Four long-term convicts who sawed their way out of the Iowa Penitentiary at Fort Madison Wednesday were captured in south central Iowa today.

BANK INTEREST RATE HITS RECORD 5.33

OTTAWA (CP)—The Bank of Canada interest rate shot up this week to an all-time high of 5.33 per cent, the central bank reported today.

The rise followed last week's decline to 5.15 per cent. Previous to that the bank rate had climbed steadily for nine consecutive weeks. The previous high was 5.30 per cent two weeks ago. The peak compares with the all-time low of 1.12 per cent set last Aug. 2.

Living Costs Take Jump; Taxes Hurt

OTTAWA (CP)—Living costs rose during April following a five-month decline, pushing the consumer price index up by one-fifth of a point to 125.6 on May 1 from 125.4 April 1, the bureau of statistics reported today.

Some of the price boost reflected tax increases announced in Finance Minister Fleming's April 9 budget, the bureau said.

While some food prices dipped, prices rose for cigarettes, cigar tobacco, liquor, automobile tires, theatre admissions, men's haircuts, women's hairdressing along with men's and women's footwear, fresh fruits and vegetables and costs of home ownership. Textiles and household supplies also were higher.

CUTS OFFSET

These offset declines for gasoline in Ontario where "price wars" had occurred in a number of cities, beef, coffee, eggs, sugar, lard, some pork cuts and coal.

The consumer price index is based on 1949 prices equaling 100.

Wage figures showed a downward tendency during March. The index of average industrial wages and salaries at April 1—latest date for which figures are available—was 169.1, based on 1949 equaling 100. This was down from 170.2 March 1 but up from 163.4 April 1 last year.

The various sub-groups that go into the consumer index showed these changes between April 1 and May 1: Food, down to 118.5 from 119.3; shelter which includes rents and home-ownership costs, up to 141 from 140.5; clothing up to 109.7 from 109.6; household operations down to 122.5 from 122.9 and other commodities and services up to 134.9 from 133.7.

FRANCE PLANS NEW CAMPAIGN IN ALGERIA

PARIS (AP)—France will never abandon Algeria, Premier Michel Debre asserted today as the new French National Assembly began its first debate on the rebellion-torn territory.

He declared a campaign would soon be undertaken to reassert France's determination to remain in control in Algeria. He said that outside aid to the rebels would be resolutely opposed and that a blacklist would be made up of nations, organizations and companies giving aid to the rebels.

"We will take reprisals which will cost dearly to those who do not understand that solidarity with France in Algeria is essential."

See the hospitals are asking for more money. Guess it's no use telling 'em 'nev patients. Maybe them invaders in Nicaragua are only tourists rushin' th' season.

Central America Fears 'Bloodbath'

Nicaragua Envoy Asks Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Nicaraguan ambassador Guillermo Sevilla-Sacasa said today "there might be a serious bloodbath" in Central America unless the Organization of American States heeds a request for an investigation of the Nicaraguan invasion.

The envoy also told the OAS council that if it fails to act on his country's request, Nicaragua might be forced to take action on its own and fire at Costa Rican planes suspected of bringing more rebels into Nicaragua.

"Every day, the situation grows worse," he said. "Unless the OAS acts there might be a serious bloodbath. This could cause a grave conflict between Costa Rica and Nicaragua."

The council postponed until tonight any action on the request.

Sevilla-Sacasa painted a dark picture of the situation as he fought to get the OAS council to approve a special investigation of what he called a threat to the security of the hemisphere.

MEET DELAYED

Today's council meeting was delayed as some diplomats searched for a formula short of immediate intervention. They were said to be suggesting that the council merely appoint a committee to study the issue further without invoking immediately the Inter-American Treaty of Mutual Assistance.

The treaty binds the nations of the hemisphere to take collective action to contain threats to the peace.

The council had been scheduled to meet at 11 a.m. E.D.T. (8 a.m. P.D.T.) to vote on Nicaragua's appeal for a foreign ministers' meeting and for an investigation of what it called an armed, airborne invasion and threatened sea-borne attack.

COMPROMISE SEEN

However, as the meeting hour came and passed, Latin and American diplomats remained closeted in private meetings. Informed sources said possible compromise or preliminary measures short of invoking the Reciprocal Assistance Pact were being considered.

One possibility would be the appointment of a committee to study the question further.

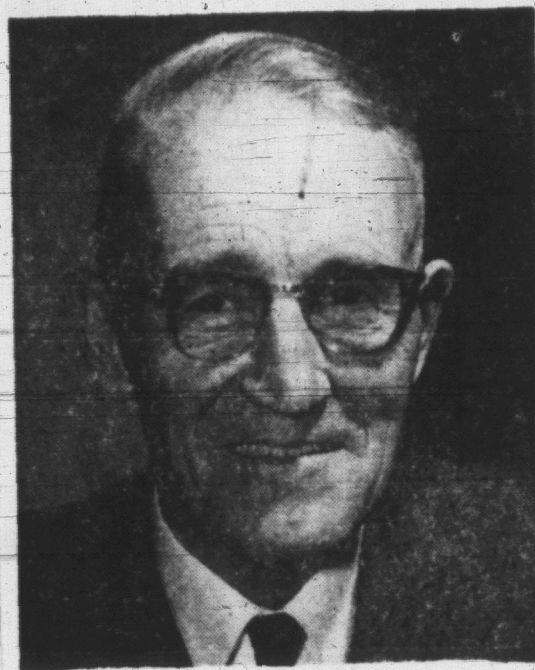

Several diplomats said privately they agreed, at least in part, with Cuba's contention that the Nicaraguan government had failed to make a convincing case that the security of the hemisphere is threatened by the small-scale landing of insurgents, many of whom are Nicaraguans.

The renewed rioting grew out of funeral services for six of the eight persons killed in clashes Tuesday night.

Military authorities ordered a 10 p.m. curfew for the city of 275,000. Ecuador's largest President Ponce earlier had proclaimed martial law "to save the republic from anarchy and aggression."

The Communist party openly challenged the martial-law decree and appealed for a great front of popular and democratic unity to prevent dictatorship.

The general staff said in a communique that it had proof of a dangerous subversive plot that may threaten the very existence of the Ecuadorian nation. It blamed subversive elements, "some of them in the service of foreign interests."

HOWARD GREEN ... "very challenging"

VANCOUVER LAWYER

OTTAWA (CP)—Howard Green, 63-year-old Vancouver lawyer, today was sworn in as external affairs minister.

Mr. Green, who has been federal public works minister since June, 1957, will retain that portfolio on an acting basis until his departmental estimates for 1959-60 have been passed through the Commons.

He was sworn in his new post before Governor-General Massey at Government House. (His appointment was forecast in a special Ottawa dispatch in the Times Tuesday.)

Mr. Green, who described his new job as "very challenging," told reporters after his appointment was announced on the Government House steps: "I'm not quite sure yet how I feel. I've only been the minister about 15 minutes."

Prime Minister Diefenbaker indicated there will be no further cabinet appointments, at least until the end of the session.

STILL HOUSE LEADER

Mr. Green will continue as government house leader in the Commons but will give up his post of chairman of the Progressive Conservative party caucus in Parliament.

No replacement for the caucus chairmanship was announced. This will probably be decided at next week's regular caucus meeting.

Mr. Green succeeds the late Sidney Smith in the external affairs portfolio. Since Mr. Smith's death last March, Mr. Diefenbaker has directed the affairs of the department.

Army Build-Up In Nicaragua

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP)—Nicaragua began doubling its army today in the wake of invasion threats by opponents of dictator-President Luis Somoza.

The buildup of the armed forces got under way even though it was officially announced that the small band of rebels who invaded by air during the weekend, were fleeing and no longer a danger. The government said it was adding 2,000 men to the national guard—the nation's army which already numbers about 2,000.

In addition, 10,000 guard reservists are being called up for training.

In San Jose, the capital of neighboring Costa Rica, Nicaraguan rebel leader Enrique Lacayo Farfan claimed that strong contingents of farmers were joining the rebels. He said a national guard force had been ambushed and a large amount of military equipment captured. A rebel radio broadcast said the rebels had suffered 60 more than six casualties.

Ecuador Port City Looted By Rioting Mob; 16 Dead

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador (AP)—Guayaquil counted 16 dead and nearly 200 injured today after two nights of rioting which turned into looting Wednesday night.

The rioters burned down the headquarters of the security police in this tropical port city and sacked about 40 stores, two big markets and an orphanage.

About 100 persons were caught with looted goods. They were jailed for trials set up under the martial law decree throughout this predominantly Indian nation by President Camilo Ponce.

Col. Luis Pinello, military commander in Guayaquil, said the situation finally was brought under control at midnight with the help of university and high school students.

The students had stirred the rioting Tuesday night in a war against the police.

People and Things

(Times News Services)

LONDON—The peers of the realm took a look at British TV Wednesday night and decided too much nonsense is filling the tiny screen.

They used such terms as tedious, demoralizing, trivial, silly for it.

Neither the BBC nor the Independent TV Authority emerged from the Lords' debate with a clean bill.

"The other night," said Lord Boothby, "I turned on the BBC and there was a young man wriggling about behind the microphone singing a song called I Love You."

"I stood this for a little time, and decided to switch to the other people. I found there was a blonde wriggling about behind a microphone singing precisely the same song."

"I didn't want to be loved by either of them so I had no option but to switch off altogether."

MILWAUKEE—An 86-year-old recluse who prowled alleys at night to pick up junk and waste paper left an estate valued at more than $500,000, the administrator of his estate reported Tuesday. Gilbert A. Kneuppel, the administrator, said that the estate of Albert Friedrich may reach $700,000. Friedrich, who died April 18, left no will. Closest of kin appears to be first cousins.

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. Swedish beauty Anita Ekberg rolled out of bed before dawn today and went to a police station to bail out her former husband, actor Anthony Steel, jailed on a drunk driving charge.

Board Approves Hike For Costal Officers

OTTAWA (CP)—A federal conciliation board, in a majority report, has recommended a 20-per-cent wage increase spread over a two-year period for some 30 Pacific coast marine engineer-officers, the labor department announced today.

The report dealt with the lengthy dispute between the Northland Navigation Company of Vancouver and the National Association of Marine Engineers of Canada (N.A.M.E.).

The union asked for a 24-per-cent increase spread over two years while the company proposed an increase of 17 per cent spread over three years.

Magistrate Scores Frauds on Welfare

Obtaining social assistance by false pretences must stop, Magistrate William Ostler warned in city police court today.

He suspended sentence on Lajos Balog, 2640 Rose, who pleaded guilty to obtaining $52.50 welfare under false pretences by failing to declare wage advances in January and February.

"These improper assaults upon this public fund must cease," or there will be more firm treatment by the court, Magistrate Ostler said.

He put Balog on $500 bond for good behavior for six months.

Another accused, Bela Vargady, 217 Quebec, was fined $50 for giving false information to welfare officials to obtain special assistance.

Vargady had falsely told the department he did not own a car.

Will Bradach, 6052 Bear Hill, was remanded to Tuesday for probation report and sentence after pleading guilty to false pretences in receiving $450 welfare between Dec. 14, 1958 and March 10, 1959, by failing to declare unemployment insurance benefits.

The Department of Transport advised mariners today that naval firing practice will be carried out from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. Monday, June 8, in the area west of the Swiftsure light ship.

DOUR IN OPPOSITION, SMILING IN GOV'T

Howard Green—Changed Man

OTTAWA (CP)—Tall, spare Howard Charles Green is lively proof that a man can change his outlook on life even when he's fairly well on in years.

What changed Mr. Green—or, at least, that side of him which the public sees—was a government portfolio after 22 years on the opposition benches in the Commons. Now Mr. Green, 63, is said by highly-placed informants to be Prime Minister Diefenbaker's choice for the external affairs post, left vacant March 17 by the death of Hon. Sidney Smith.

The bespectacled Mr. Green was dour and unhumorous when in opposition. He used to drive the Liberals nearly frantic with his unrelenting curiosity about the most minute details of government business.

WILL SPLIT A COMMA

A delegate at the 1956 convention which chose Mr. Diefenbaker as Progressive Conservative leader said of Mr. Green after a long private session of a resolutions committee: "That man Green, he'll even try to split a comma."

The industrious, dogged

Vancouver lawyer was once described by former Liberal trade minister C. D. Howe as a perambulating prognosticator of gloom who stalked the halls of Parliament with Bible in one hand and stiletto in the other.

Nobody would dream of applying this description today. Mr. Green is a changed man, with an expansive good humor that disarms the opposition.

When the Liberals and the CCF criticize in the Commons, Mr. Green says with a broad grin: "You're just whining. Believe me, because I know something about whining. I used to be about the best whiner in the House."

It's hard to get angry at a man who wisecracks after 22 unsmiling years and the opposition regards Mr. Green with affection.

Mr. Green has been a "Diefenbaker man" for years and holds the prime minister in the highest esteem. He never talks out of turn or makes statements that might later

LOYALTY RECIPROCATED

His loyalty to the prime minister is fully reciprocated. He is senior member of the cabinet and acting prime minister when Mr. Diefenbaker is away. He is minister of public works and government house leader. His only real connection with foreign affairs was his membership on the Commons external affairs committee and there he was not so much concerned with foreign policy as how the department spent its money.

He dislikes travel and has never been in Europe since he served in the 54th Kootenay Battalion overseas in the First World War. But then, Opposition Leader Pearson, former external affairs minister, dislikes plane travel intensely.

Mr. Green was born at Kaslo, B.C., November 5, 1895. Educated at Kaslo, the University of Toronto and Osgoode Hall law school in Toronto, he was elected to the Commons in 1935 on his first try and has been re-elected six times since. He first represented Vancouver South and has been the member for Vancouver Quadra since 1949.

He was married in 1923 and has two sons, Lewis, of nearby Manotick, Ont., and John, of Agassiz, B.C. After his first wife died he remarried in 1956.

Message to Oak Bay Voters

From Mr. John D. Watts, P.Eng.

In the present election as in other recent elections there has been a tendency for persons of known and advertised party political affiliations to seek office. It is traditional that municipal government be kept free from party politics. I trust that you will agree with this well established principle and select your new councillors solely on the basis of their personal ability and standing. I wish it known that I am not a member of any political party and that I am not receiving assistance from any political party. I am seeking your vote only because I feel I am well qualified by training and experience to serve you as a councillor.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CPI) — Grain prices were somewhat irregular in moderately active trade today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

There were no reports of export interest in Canadian flax or coarse grains.

Early buying was prompted by continued dry weather and high temperatures in western Canada.

There were no reports of overnight export loadings of Canadian wheat.

Lakehead prices for class two, IWA and domestic wheat were all unchanged from Wednesday.

Hospitals Ask More Cash, Fear Loss of Key Workers

Confidence In BCHIS Waning, Cabinet Told

The provincial government must increase assistance to community hospitals or it may soon be difficult to find both hospital personnel and people to serve on hospital boards, the B.C. cabinet was warned today.

A seven-point brief, outlining urgent requirements for government aid, was presented to the B.C. cabinet today by the executive of the B.C. Hospitals' Association.

Specifically, the delegation wants extension of contributory medical insurance to all hospital employees with costs paid by BCHIS; a contributory superannuation plan (such as exists at Royal Jubilee and Vancouver General) extended to all hospital workers in the province; increased allowances for depreciation and maintenance; a more liberal policy for hospital budgets and higher daily rates or permission for the hospitals to make additional charges; increased allowances for care to welfare patients and improved liaison with the government.

LOSE CONFIDENCE

The brief was submitted by BCHA president J. H. Hargrave of Trail, H. R. Slade, D. A. Thompson, L. F. C. Kirby, J. V. Hughes, H. E. Taylor, P. Ward and K. Conibear, executive secretary.

The delegation said the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service is on the whole, a good service. "Nevertheless, we must report that many of our members appear at this time to be losing confidence in BCHIS. A sense of frustration, of ineffectiveness, has been voiced at many hospital meetings."

The brief referred to the recent trouble at Prince Rupert when a majority of the hospital board resigned in protest at the tight rein held on hospital operations under BCHIS.

FURTHER AGGRAVATED

"The incident at Prince Rupert... further aggravated the discontent and sense of frustration. Why should devoted men and women serve on hospital boards if one result of their efforts is censure in the public press?" This referred to a public statement by Health Minister Martin at the time, which was taken as a criticism of the board.

The health minister was absent from today's meeting, being himself a patient in hospital.

The brief asked, "Why accept responsibility for managing hospitals without the power to manage them effectively? These are the questions some of our members are asking and if they are not satisfactorily answered, it may

WELFARE BOOST

The brief asked that social service allowance to hospitals caring for welfare patients should be increased to $7 a day instead of the $5.50 now paid.

STATUS OF CRITIC CHALLENGED

Who's Nuts? City Fathers Ask

Exactly who needs a psychiatrist was the question at City Hall today.

Peter Brown, son of Central Saanich Reeve H. Rupert Brown, Wednesday told a Victoria Ratepayers Educational Association meeting that a psychiatrist's office should be set up in City Hall and the "thinking ability" of aldermen investigated.

"I'd be glad to submit to a psychiatrist's examination if Mr. Brown will do the same," Ald. Hugh Ramsay said today.

Mr. Brown, who is sales manager of his father's real estate firm, charged that council had shown poor judgment in sale of municipal land and that it was trying to conceal the city's $8,400,000 debt.

Acting Mayor Arthur Dowell countered that the city actually boasted of the debt figure every year because it was reduced by about $500,000 annually to make Victoria one of only two cities in Canada that was cutting debt.

Noting that Mr. Brown, who claimed a lifetime study of civic affairs, lives in Saanich, Mr. Dowell said: "As a non-resident and non-taxpayer of Victoria, I think I understand why he actually knows so little about city affairs."

The Victoria Ratepayers Educational Association, of which Mr. Brown is a member, was formed recently by about 20 persons as a "study group" which has held public meetings in support of ex-alderman J. Donald Smith's campaign against the parking bylaw.

HOME TRIUMPHANT are these three Victoria girls who between them snared a $100 scholarship and two other prizes at Vancouver School of Art. Scholarship winner was Kara Lou O'Brien, 18, 1415 Fort, second from right, awarded for outstanding work in first year; $50 prize for oil painting went to Paddy Cooter, 22, 1885 Lansdowne, right, and $25 for oil painting to Ann Redford, 22, 105 Beach. Girls have taken jobs as salesgirls at a city handicrafts store to earn money for further art tuition. —(Jorgen Svendsen photo)

'BRIGHTENER' FORECAST FOR WEEKEND

Cloudy skies, showers, and westerly winds expected to reach 35 miles per hour this evening will give way to partial clearing Friday and a "favorable" weekend weatherman William Mackie said today.

Clouds and rain today were blamed on a storm which brushed the north coast of Vancouver Island on its way to southeast Alaska.

Temperatures tonight and Friday will range between 50 and 62 degrees, Mr. Mackie said.

Hit Run Driver Sought By Police

Police are looking for driver of a blue and white car which left the scene of an accident at Fernwood and Vining about 4 p.m. Tuesday, leaving cyclist Mike Watson, 13, of 2605 Belmont, with a broken arm.

The motorist is possibly unaware there had been a collision, which police said happened when the car cut in front of the bicycle to go east on Vining. The bike struck the car's right rear fender, police said.

The boy was treated at Jubilee Hospital.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. When was the date the First World War officially ended? P.E.D.

A. It was officially ended June 28, 1919, when representatives of the Allied powers and Germany signed the Treaty of Versailles at Versailles, France. Its provisions were brought into force by exchange of ratifications Jan. 10, 1920.

Q. Would you please tell me the name of the "Tree That Grows In Brooklyn?" E.P.

A. You apparently refer to the tree in the book "A Tree Grows In Brooklyn." This tree is identified as alanthus altissima, that is, just any tree that drops its leaves.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along with the Times. Editor, Questions and answers will be published daily. All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or "legal problems." $20,000 WING

Ker Gallery Under Way Next Month

Tenders for the $20,000 commemorative "Ker Gallery" for the Victoria Art Gallery will be called before the end of June, with work to start before the end of July, the architects, Polson and Siddall, announced today.

Construction is expected to be finished by late October or nearly November.

The 20 by 70-foot glass fronted addition will be to the east facade of the new centennial wing.

Gallery curator Colin Graham said today present exhibition space is utilized mostly for traveling collections, but with the addition of the new gallery, there will be adequate room for the permanent collection and overflow from non-permanent displays.

The donation has been made by R. H. B. Ker, Gordon Head, whose family has been prominent in business and social life of the city for the past century.

Mr. Ker said today the contribution was made "as an appreciation of the heritage we enjoy today after 100 years in Victoria. It is indeed happy that the Ker family is able to make this donation to the cultural life of this community."

Boxla Star Committed

Victoria lacrosse player James L. McNulty, 29, was formally committed to trial when he appeared in Colwood RCMP court Wednesday charged with criminal negligence in the death of a former fellow player.

A preliminary hearing, in which it was alleged McNulty drove a car which crashed and caused fatal injuries to James Richard "Peewee" Bradshaw, 27, May 3, was conducted last week.

Bail was set at $5,000 pending trial in a higher court, probably in the fall.

Shipyard Job Situation Still Below Average

Job situation at Victoria shipyards continues below average, with a "slight improvement" at Yarrows Ltd. balanced by a "drifting down" in the work force at Victoria Machinery Depot.

Yarrows is presently working on annual overhaul of deep-sea cargo ship Francis Falman, after completing similar job to cargo ship Pan.

Yarrows has about 500 men on the yard payroll, compared to some 350 at VMD.

VMD managing director Harold Husband said a freighter and dredge were due for construction on the west coast, but he said there was "no guarantee" the contracts would come to Victoria.

... HERE AND THERE ...

With NORMAN CRIBBENS

I'm told the Butchart Gardens staff had difficulty identifying a tree which suddenly burst into glorious white bloom for the first time.

So they called in provincial botanist Dr. Adam Szezwinski.

He identified it as the dove tree (Davidia involucreta), a native of West China, so named because the blooms look like white doves when the wind blows through them.

The flowers are about seven inches across and somewhat resemble the dogwood. The tree is 20 feet high, the only one of its kind in Victoria—and was planted years ago by Mrs. R. P. Butchart, founder of our famous gardens.

S.O.S. from the Public Library:

"Mr. Cribbens—in returning our Beethoven records you inadvertently enclosed one of your own Fats Waller's..."

"Now how did those two get together?"

Out at Patricia Bay I watched a bevy of American tourists simultaneously snap-shooting the quaint little brown-faced church of Holy Trinity.

"What do they call that thing in front of it?" asked one.

"A lych gate," I replied.

They tell me the lumber for the church was cut in 1887 at Genoa Bay sawmill, built into a raft and rowed across to the nearest shore.

The bell tower was added in 1889 and the lych gate in 1957.

Rush-hour traffic in Victoria and Vancouver is just a Sunday school picnic compared to that of Rome or London, says Highway Minister Phil Gagardi, back from a tour of Europe.

"The cars stretch nose to tail for miles on end and move at a snail's pace. It's murder for a man who wants to go places in a hurry."

Especially Flying Phil!

Why do modern novelists feel they have to be crude in order to be realistic? asks a Times reader.

I've wondered that, too. Surely it is better to stimulate by suggestive restraint. Here, for example, is one of the Victorian era. W. W. Jacobs, describing the language of an angry seaman:

"The seaman, in a few well-chosen words, must some doubt on the legality of the mate's parentage and inferred he was a threat to feminine virtue."

What could be more effective?

TOPICS OF THE DAY

The victim, whose name was not revealed by RCMP, told police he had met the three youths in a downtown bar, and that after a few drinks they offered to show him around.

After driving about for some time, they went to the Esplanade, a quiet street near the waterfront south of the business section, where they took his wallet and forced him from the car.

Taxes Hurt

OTTAWA (CP)—Living costs rose during April following a five-month decline, pushing the consumer price index up by one-fifth of a point to 125.6 on May 1 from 125.4 April 1, the bureau of statistics reported today.

Some of the price boost reflected tax increases announced in Finance Minister Fleming's April 3 budget, the bureau said.

While some food prices dipped, prices rose for cigarettes, cigar tobacco, liquor, automobile tires, theatre admissions, men's haircuts, women's hairdressing along with men's and women's footwear, fresh fruits and vegetables and costs of home ownership. Textiles and household supplies also were higher.

The buildup of the armed forces got under way even though it was officially announced that the small band of rebels who invaded by air during the weekend was fleeing and no longer a danger.

The government said it was adding 2,000 men to the national guard—the nation's army which already numbers about 2,000 active. In addition, 10,000 guard reservists are being called up for training.

CATCH PLANNED

Planes had been poised to try a difficult aerial catch over the Pacific but officials had given them only one chance in 700 of succeeding.

The mice would have been the first creatures retrieved alive from orbit. Two monkeys were fired into space from Cape Canaveral by the army May 28 but their trip covered only 4,500 miles.

Strapped on the backs of the mice were tiny radios. These were intended to relay their heartbeat, breathing, temperature and muscular activity back to earth.

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif.—The Discoverer III satellite vehicle, fired aloft with four "space mice" aboard Thursday, re-entered the earth's atmosphere and burned up, it was announced today.

Roy W. Johnson, director of the advanced research projects, said that "all available data" indicated the mouse-carrying rocket plunged its tiny passengers to a fiery death several thousand miles south of here within minutes after launching.

But Air Force authorities indicated that valuable information was received on the mice during the period of rocket lift-off, the period of "weightlessness" in space and the period when the satellite stage fired to inject itself into orbit.

"One of the possibilities under investigation," Johnson's statement said, "was that the injection (into orbit) angle of the vehicle was improper, causing it to re-enter the atmosphere."

He was sworn in his new post before Governor-General Massey at Government House. (His appointment was forecast in a special Ottawa dispatch in the Times Tuesday.)

Mr. Green, who described his new job as "very challenging," told reporters after his appointment was announced on the Government House steps: "I'm not quite sure yet how I feel. I've only been the minister about 15 minutes."

Prime Minister Diefenbaker indicated there will be no further cabinet appointments, at least until the end of the session.

Central America
Fears 'Bloodbath'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Nicaraguan ambassador Guillermo Sevilla-Sacasa said today "there might be a serious bloodbath" in Central America unless the Organization of American States heeds a request for an investigation of the Nicaraguan invasion.

The envoy also told the OAS council that if it fails to act on his country's request, Nicaragua might be forced to take action on its own and fire at Costa Rican planes suspected of bringing more rebels into Nicaragua.

"Every day the situation grows worse," he said. "Unless the OAS acts there might be a serious bloodbath. This could cause a grave conflict between Costa Rica and Nicaragua."

The council postponed until tonight any action on the request.

Sevilla-Sacasa painted a dark picture of the situation as he fought to get the OAS council to approve a special investigation of what he called a threat to the security of the hemisphere.

"Today's council meeting was delayed as some diplomats searched for a formula short of immediate intervention. They were said to be suggesting that the council merely appoint a committee to study the issue further without invoking immediately the Inter-American Treaty of Mutual Assistance.

The treaty binds the nations of the hemisphere to take collective action to contain threats to the peace.

The council had been scheduled to meet at 11 a.m. E.D.T. (8 a.m. P.D.T.) to vote on Nicaragua's appeal for a foreign ministers meeting and for an investigation of what it called an armed, airborne invasion and threatened seaborne attack.

However, as the meeting hour came and passed, Latin and American diplomats remained closeted in private meetings. Informed sources said possible compromise or preliminary measures short of invoking the Reciprocal Assistance Pact were being considered.

One possibility would be the appointment of a committee to study the question further.

Several diplomats said privately they agreed, at least in part, with Cuba's contention that the Nicaraguan government had failed to make a convincing case that the security of the hemisphere is threatened by the small-scale landing of insurgents, many of whom are Nicaraguans.

Ecuador Port City Looted
By Rioting Mob; 16 Dead

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador (AP)—Guayaquil counted 16 dead and nearly 200 injured today after two nights of rioting which turned into looting Wednesday night.

The rioters burned down the headquarters of the security police in this tropical port city and sacked about 40 stores, two big markets and an orphanage.

About 100 persons were caught with looted goods. They were jailed for trials set up under the martial law decreed throughout this predominantly Indian nation by President Camilo Ponce.

Col. Luis Pineros, military commander in Guayaquil, said the situation finally was brought under control at midnight with the help of university and high school students. The students had started the rioting Tuesday night in a war against the police.

The renewed rioting grew out of funeral services for six of the eight persons killed in clashes Tuesday night.

Military authorities ordered a 10 p.m.-3 a.m. curfew for the city of 275,000, Ecuador's largest. President Rendon earlier had proclaimed martial law "to save the republic from anarchy and aggression."

The Communist party openly challenged the martial-law decree and appealed for "a great front of popular and democratic unity to prevent dictatorship."

The general staff said in a communique that it had proof of a "dangerous subversive plot that may threaten the very existence of the Ecuadorian nation." It blamed subversive elements "some of them in the service of foreign interests."
